Shakespeare's 'Twelfth Night' Begins Nov. 1

The college drama season will officially open next Wednesday evening Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. with the production of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night."

A second performance will be given on Thursday, Nov. 2 at the same hour. There will be a matinee on Friday afternoon at 3:30 primarily for high school students, but members of the college may also attend.

The play has a second name: "What You Will." This is truly the best name for this comedy, which can be whatever the audience, the actors or the director wills that it may be: romantic love, sparkling farce comedy or a mystery of mistaken identity.

The question of identity is the old gag of the confusion of twins. How can this be managed on stage? There are no twins at AC. Can one person play both parts? No, they are both on the stage at one time. Come and see how the problem is solved.

When Stage and Script gave "Twelfth Night" in 1950, the cast contained the names of many accomplished actors and actresses who have not found their way to the Broadway stage or to Hollywood, but who might have graced those boards if they had so chosen.

Some of them have lived in far corners of the world since graduation from AC, and some of them may have been high school teachers of present AC students.

Duke Orsino was played by Jack Overman; Curio by Durward Tyson; Valentine, Clinton Ousley; Viola, Bernelle White; Captain, David Smith; Maria, Susan Lewis; Sir Toby, Norwood Dunn; Sir Andrew, Fred Boyce; Feste, Jimmy Nichols; Malvolio, Bill Waters; Olivia, Martha Nassif; Sebastian, Jack Greenwood; Antonio, Bennell White; Fabian, Carroll James; Priest, Edwin Alston; Ladies, Joyce Harrell and Nell Beaman.

During the 350 years since the play was first presented, there have been many talented actors and actresses playing these rewarding roles. E. H. Southern played Malvolio with Julia Marlowe as Viola. Other Violas have been Viola Allen, Helena Madjeska, Katherine Hepburn and many other well-known actresses.

Maurice Evans as Malvolio and Helen Hayes in the role of Viola gave an outstanding performance a few years ago.

Guy Miller and Margaret Walker are portraying the corresponding roles in AC's production.

There is constant rivalry in the play between the two or three distinct plots, with the comedians - Sir Toby, Sir Andrew, Fabian and Feste - often stealing the interest from the romantic element.

Hal Gibbs, Parker Wilson, Bill Langley and Bruce Turner are in the respective comedian roles for next week's production.

Campus Leaders Confer With The Peace Corps

The Leaders of the Peace Corps see its purpose and projects as a living expression of William James desire to find a moral equivalent to war.

This past weekend Dr. William Troutman of the Political Science Department, D. L. Warren, Director of Student Life, and Dale Williamson, a member of the Campus Awareness Committee, attended a Recruitment Conference Regional meeting in Washington, D. C. This conference was held for college administrators and student leaders from campuses in North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia.

The highlight of the weekend meeting was the luncheon message delivered by Sargeant Shriver, the director of the Peace Corps. In his message Shriver lifted up the quality of the people who are working in Washington at staff positions in the Peace Corps. Shriver pointed out the fact that there are as many Republicans as there are Democrats working with the Peace Corps.

Many incidents were shared concerning the experiences of the volunteers who are now working on the projects which have been undertaken. At the present time projects are underway in five countries. Volunteers are now in training for projects which will get underway in four additional countries.

Plans that have been developed by the Peace Corps are dreams for five to six thousand volunteers to be working in countries around the world by October of 1962.

The over-all purpose of the Peace Corps is to promote world friendship and peace. In doing this volunteers help people, create a better image of America abroad, and bring back to the United States a better understanding of the peoples of the world.

The Peace Corps has the possibility of bridging the gaps that now exist between the countries of the world.

Greeks Await Bid Results

Now that the excitement and frantic of Rush Week is over, the

Alumnus Gets Peace Corps Bid

Rex B. Jarrell Jr., 27, of Durham, a graduate of Atlantic Christian College, was recently named among 50 Peace Corps volunteers to begin training for secondary school teaching assignments in Sierra Leone.

The 35 men and 14 women will train at the Peace Corps field training center in Puerto Rico, and then at a university in the United States which will be selected later. They will get 10 days of Christmas leave, and then depart for Sierra Leone, which recently became the 100th member of the United Nations.

Jarrell received a degree in physical education from Atlantic Christian College in the spring of 1960. He was a physical education teacher and a basketball coach at a public school in Jonesboro, Ga., after graduation.

The Executive Board held its regular meeting Monday, Oct. 23, with president Jeff Adams presiding. Mr. Adams announced that the student senators would be installed the coming Monday night, October 30, instead of the previous scheduled time, Monday, Oct. 23, because of unexpected complications.

Miss Peggy Bivins asked Mr. Edward Cloyd to explain the activities of the athletic and intramural program. Mr. Cloyd stated that during a students' four years at A.C.C. he would pay $88 to the Physical Education department, but after deducting the students' expenses he would only be paying $76.30. Then Mr. Cloyd asked Mr. Milton Adams to explain how the $8 physical education fee was used. Mr. Adams explained that the fee was used to take care of traveling expenses for the team and for A. C. to be host to other teams. Mr. Adams also explained that A. C. has the smallest intercollegiate budget of all the schools in the North State Conference. Mr. Adams went on to say that if the cooperative association did not have adequate funds, they should ask for more money.

Miss Bivins suggested that there be a fee directly through the Athletic department instead of a $8. Physical Education fee, $8 intercollegiate fee, and $15 fee for other activities. Roy Barnes suggested that there should be such things as gym fees to make money. Mr. Bishop asked if the $8 intercollegiate fee went for scholarships. Mr. Adams said that they tried to raise the money for scholarships through other sources. Mr. Bishop made a motion to recommend to the administrative council that it be put in next year's catalogue that there be $15.00 student activities fees, $8 intercollegiate, and $8 physical Education and intramural fees. Dr. Tucker recommended this motion and it carried. Dr. Tucker and Mr. Miller thanked Mr. Adams, Mr. Cloyd, and the Physical Education department for being present at the Executive Board meeting and showing so much interest.

Miss Linda Cale announced the tickets for the IFC dance will be sold for $1. The chair appointed Jimmy Adams and Judy Barnes to be in charge of distributing these tickets.

Miss Sarah Bain Ward pointed out that coats and ties should be worn at Executive Board meetings. Men should not wear sweat shirts around campus or swim shorts for sports, and sloppy clothes should not be worn to dances. She stressed that students realize their responsibilities to themselves and to the school. Miss Ward also asked that

Daniel Hensley Guest Speaker

Dean Daniel Hensley, Director of Religious Life at Atlantic Christian College and guest speaker of the October meeting of the Baptist Student Union, told the members present that awareness of everything around us is being overlooked in the lives of the majority of the young people today. Dean Hensley also related to the group that today we place religion as a detached segment of our lives when it should be interwoven within our daily routine.

In the parlor of the First Baptist Church, Ann Hayes, president, called the meeting to order, and was immediately followed by Arnold Milson who presented the devotional. A discussion of delegates to attend the state convention to be held in Raleigh Nov. 3-4 preceded information given to the group concerning the organization of an extension team. Ellen Finch, missions chairman, was appointed for further work in his field. Miss Hayes also appointed Arnold Nilson, BSU treasurer, chairman of the budget committee.

For the November meeting, the Baptist Student Union of ACC will be host to visiting students from Pembroke College, Pembroke, N. C. Also attending the November meeting will be Jim Bardin, state counselor of BSU.

Prior to the meeting, supper was served to the attending members. The invocation was given by Don Hinshaw, music director of the First Baptist Church.
