New Music Classroom Building

Music Building Will Be Started During Summer

Bids have been received on Atlantic Christian College's new music classroom building, the first structure of a three-unit fine arts center.

Tentative plans call for groundbreaking ceremonies to be held here during the college's Sixtieth Commencement on May 27.

Designed by architect B. Atwood Skinner of Wilson, cost of the structure is to be about $150,000. Total bids make it apparent that the college will proceed with construction as low bids fall within the maximum amount authorized by the Board of Trustees. Contracts will be awarded after the building committee has had time to study both base and alternate bids.

The 11,000 square foot brick building is to be located near Woodard and Whitehead Streets facing West Gold Street, leaving space for a fine arts auditorium and an arts classroom building planned for the future.

The new music classroom facility will be of contemporary design in keeping with the latest architecture of the campus. There is to be a choral room which will accommodate 100 people and a band room which will seat 70-90 people.

Situated around an inner court there will be 13 music practice rooms, six teaching studios and a theory classroom. The building is to be completely air conditioned. Floors will be terazzo in vinyl asbestos.

Concert Is May 14

The First Annual Spring Concert of the Atlantic Christian College Music Department will be held in Howard Chapel, Monday, May 14, at 8:15 p.m.

Golden Knot Honor Society Plans Induction Ceremony

Members of the Golden Knot Honor Society have recently been making plans for its annual induction ceremony. Committees have been working on preparations for the formal induction to be held during the regular chapel hour on May 15 in Howard Chapel for Sophomore, Juniors, and Seniors.

The purpose of the society is to achieved this success.

The selection of the members is based on character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Although a "B" average for three successive semesters must have been maintained, grade average alone does not determine the basis for membership. The prospective members must have applied themselves in all areas. After a list of those students with the scholastic average has been compiled by the registrar, the honor society further studies the list and selects those students who have exhibited outstanding qualities of character, leadership, and service.

This year, Mrs. Dorothy Eagles and Dr. William Troutman have been serving as advisors. At the present time, the Golden Knot Honor Society is composed of ten members: Margaret Walker, Rodney Williams, Jerry Burton, Mary Ann Marchant, Peggy Bivens, Janice Barwick, Frankie Beacham, Linda Cale, Mickey Hayes, and Pat Hines. These are the chosen few who share the secret which will be revealed next Tuesday as new members are tapped into the Golden Knot Honor Society.
