Homecoming Festivities Precede AC Parents' Day

Most of the students who were on campus attended and enjoyed the dance.

Early Saturday morning, alumni activities started with registration.

There were various class reunions, and an Alumni College. In this feature, the head of each of the College's ten major departments lectured to alumni on some subject pertinent to his department. There was a special luncheon held in the college cafeteria in honor of the former students.

Saturday afternoon a band concert was held in the gym. The major event of this concert was the crowning of the Homecoming Queen for 1964. The honor this year went to Miss Peggy Medlin, a pretty freshman representing Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity. Sunday was a big day in the Homecoming Schedule, the annual Parents' Day. It was attended by some 800 parents from six states. The parents began to arrive around 9:00 Sunday morning. Most of them attended some Wilson church with their student-children. After a sumptuous luncheon, they were welcomed to Atlantic Christian College by Maurice Balanger, President of the student body. Presiding over the program was Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, President of ACC. Entertainment for the parents was furnished by the Atlantic Christian College Chorus, directed by Mr. James V. Cobb, head of the music Department.

During the afternoon, the students and their visiting parents were honored at a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Wenger. The parents also attended open-house activities on campus, where they met various members of the College's faculty and staff. World renowned columnist Drew Pearson was honored at a special reception in the faculty lounge here Tuesday evening. Pearson was in Wilson for a speaking engagement at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet.

According to Pearson, Johnson read to him a memorandum concerning the sale of wheat to Russia. Johnson said that the Congressional battle on the proposal would have to be won by his Administration if he was to show any strength over isolationist opposition in Congress.

Commenting on Johnson, in general, the columnist pointed out that the President is difficult to interrupt when he is talking, therefore one has to do quite a bit of listening. He noted that Johnson is in good physical health; however, the President has planned not to go abroad for talks with chiefs of state in the near future. His reason for this was his concern for many Americans worrying about his

Pearson said that the key witness, Don Reynolds, whose testimony involved President Johnson in the case, was a security risk and has been involved in many illegal dealings. This information was obtained from a confidential report, noted Pearson. Reynolds should have been investigated, himself, before being summoned to the
