

The Jokollegiate

PUBLISHED TODAY

ATLANTIC CHRISTIAN COLLEGE, APRIL 1, 1965

NUMBER ZERO

Panty Raid Destroys Harper Hall

SMASH HIT—The scene above shows Harper Hall as it appears after last Wednesday's forced entry by frenzied male students. Mr. Moor, Maintenance Engineer, reported that $27.18 had been appropriated to get Harper back to its cozy old self again. He stated that with a little paint and plaster applied in the right places, the Great Hall will be ready in a couple of days to receive again its occupants who now complain of shower room problems at the frat houses where they now reside.

Harper Hall was the scene Wednesday night of a well-planned and rather uneventful panty raid. The net result appears to be several pairs of silk stockings and one pair of jockey shorts. It was rumored that the raid was carried out with the full cooperation of the Dean of Women and the residents of Harper Hall.

The usual Wednesday night calm had settled at Harper Hall after the Bohunk social ended at 7 p.m. Those males seen milling around Harper, according to Miss Jesse Daniell, the new Dean of Women, were in no more than their usual sedate spirit. "The trouble," states Miss Daniell, "was begun with the appearance of a fuzzy-headed man rumored to be one Bob Bennett." Miss Daniell went on to say that the man uttered a series of challenging remarks to the bench warmers across the way. The young maidens of Harper upon hearing these remarks took up the cry calling upon these men to enter their sacred halls and attempt to acquire pieces of clothing which are held in reserve for such occasions.

The men answered the challenge by fleeing to Hackney Hall for reinforcements. They returned only to find the Great Doors barred and barricaded to prevent entry. Fortunately the men had with them some overly large firecrackers which had been left over from their recent beer blast at Hackney. These were strategically placed in a few of the many weak points of the building and proved to be quite sufficient to allow entry as the accompanying photo will substantiate.

Upon obtaining entry, the men were greeted with great cheers only to discover that these cheers came from men entering from another side of the building. The young maidens, it appears, had been evacuated by an underground railroad leading to the various fraternity houses in the area. The girls will reside in these temporary shelters until the Hackney Hall men can repair the damage.

Dr. Arthur Winger said, "This event has added much color to the AC campus (blues, pinks, etc) and I hope future events will receive this calibre support from the student body."

Fields Decides To Head Local CORE Chapter

Sherman Fields, reknowned campus liberal, leader of Civil Rights' marches from Selma to Chinatown

San Francisco, has decided to organize an ACC chapter of CORE.

Fields has been cited as a great asset to such a movement because no one knows better than Sherman how the right-wing extremists operate. Fields spends many nights studying literature published by the Ku Klux Klan, the John Birch Society, and the notorious Daughters of the American Revolution.

Fields' tremendous background information on right-wing extremism was obtained when he served for many years as an espionage agent working in the underground against the John Birch Society.

Fields how has the goods on these extremist groups and plans to eradicate them from Eastern North Carolina. He believes that his movement will have a great support on this campus as a result of acquiring Prof. Horatio Byrd Johnstonian as moderator for the local chapter.

SHERMAN FIELDS

ACC Will Have Football!

Details were released today of Atlantic Christian College's return to an Inter-Collegiate football program.

At the same time it was announced that Ara Parsegian, formerly of Notre Dame, has agreed to take over as head coach and that groundbreaking for the new 100,000 - seat stadium will take place next week.

The return to football had been expected after a large donation for athletics was received from the ACC Religion Department. Members of the Department stated that future religious crusades could bring larger financial grants to the football fund.

Parsegian, when contacted by this paper, noted that he felt he could have a great future with the school. He also stated that this year, due to a lack of funds (after paying his salary), there will be no scholarships offered. Next year, however, scholarship aid will be offered in a limited amount. Tentative plans, he said, call for offering 97 grants-in-aid next year with a ten per cent increase each year for 31 years.

As for the new stadium, it was learned that plans call for individual cushioned - rocking chairs and seats for everyone on the 50-yard line.

There will be a special helicopter shuttle - service from the college to the stadium which is to be built

See FOOTBALL Page 2

APRIL FOOL

WILLIS DOES IT AGAIN!—Above is pictured part of the magnificent setting for Cecil R. Willis' new spectacular production of "Swan Lake", subtitled "Where Have All the Pigeons Gone?". A cast of thousands has been contracted (ducks that is).