ACC To Host Junior High Band Clinic

More than 350 junior high school musicians will gather on the campus of Atlantic Christian College on April 7, for the annual Eastern North Carolina Junior High School Band Clinic.

From the group there will be two bands formed consisting of 75 instrumentalists each. One band will be under direction of Richard Dobson of Wilmington, while the other will be under direction of George Baird of Roanoke Rapids. Besides the two bands which will be in rehearsal all day, there will be some 200 other students working in the instrumental clinic classes with specialists in their particular instruments.

Students participating will be from Bayboro, Belhaven, Cary, Edenton, Elizabeth City, Elm City, Farmville, Jacksonville, Kinston, Louisburg, Pikeville, Roanoke Rapids, Robersonville, Rocky Mount, Selma, Smithfield, Snow Hill, Washinton (N.C.), Wilmington and Wilson.

The two clinic bands will present a concert at 4 p.m. in the campus gymnasium. Elbert Edelbrock, associate professor of music and band director at Atlantic Christian College will serve as clinic chairman.

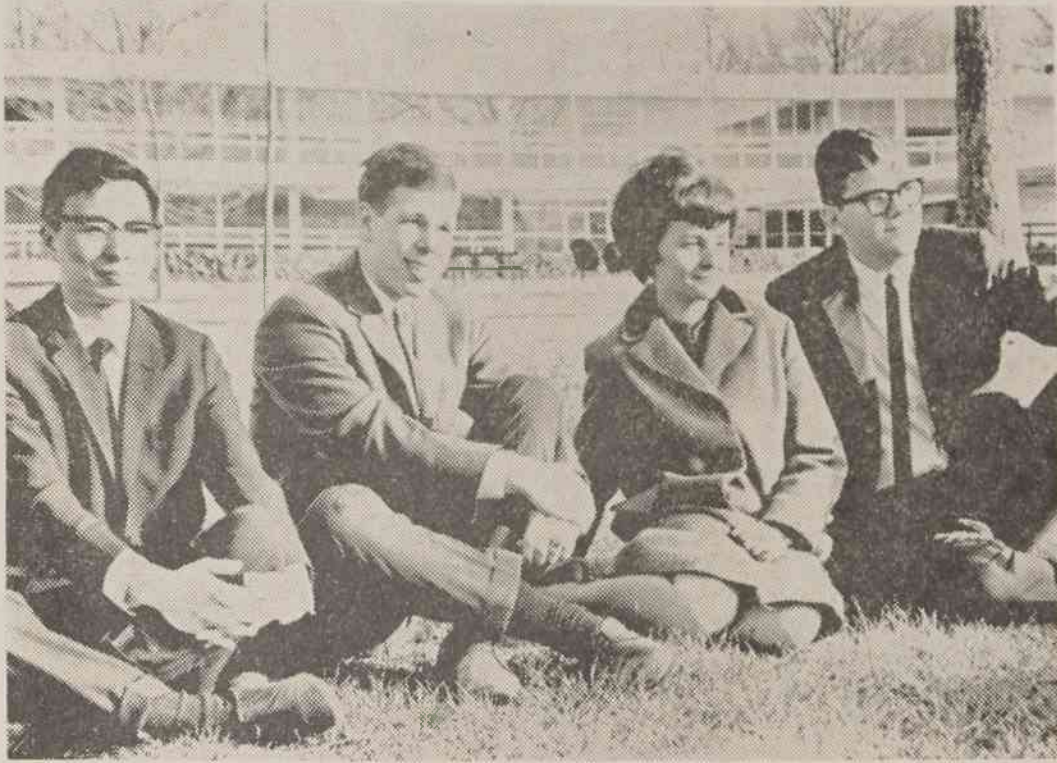

The public is invited to attend the clinic concert.

Greek Week Is Success

This past week was the most exciting and competitive time for all Greeks on our campus. The week started with the Greek sing and talent presented in Howard Chapel on Wednesday, March 23. All of the events on the program were grand. Thursday night was the date for the humorous Greek stunts which were, as usual, very entertaining. Friday afternoon provided an exciting game called Witches Polo, a game composed of girls and boys playing with a broom and volleyball. Floating fraternity parties were on the agenda for that night. Alpha Sigma Phi and Sigma Phi Epsilon held their parties at their respective houses with Delta Sigma Phi and Sigma Pi jointly using the Happy Valley Country Club as their scene. This system of floating to all fraternities was ideal and enjoyed by the Greeks and their dates.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 a concert presented by the recording artists, The Drifters, was enjoyed by all. The Drifters were backed up by the N-Men from Elon College. At intermission, Dean Robert Bennett announced the winners of the various events. In the fraternity division, Sigma Phi Epsilon won the Sing with their arrangement of "Shenandoah." The Sig Eps also won the Talent trophy with Bill Griffin's singing "It Was a Very Fine Year." Delta Sigma Phi won the Greek stunt with their skit "Rare on the Vine." The scholarship trophy was presented to Alpha Sigma Phi. In the sorority division, Tri Sigma won the Sing with "I Enjoy Being a Girl." Delta Zeta won the Talent with their trio of Marge Owens, Kay and Diane Sorrell doing fourfold melodies. Delta Zeta's stunt, "The Roommates" was the winner in this category. The scholarship trophy for the initiated members was won by Tri Sigma. The pledge class of Delta Zeta won the Pledge Scholarship trophy. As a fact of interest, a member of the band stated to

Police And College Officials Called To Quiet Disturbance

By CHARLES WOLFE

What started out to be a serenade for the girls as an addition to Greek Week activities turned into a rather serious disturbance Wednesday night, according to local police and administrative officials.

According to the Wilson Police Department, a complaint was turned in to them about 11:35 p.m. concerning a group of students reportedly passing through the community headed in the direction of the college. It was reported they were singing and creating other noises making it impossible for residents of the area to sleep.

Capt. A. J. Hayes sent a patrol car to investigate. Upon arriving at the college, officers found a group of about 65-100 students standing in front of Harper Hall singing. Hayes said at first the officers did nothing because they figured the group would soon move along, but they remained.

Officers approached the group and asked them to move on, explaining that it was late and they were disturbing people in the area trying to sleep. A few left, but the bulk of the group paid no attention. They were once more asked to leave and failed to do so. The officers called Capt. Hayes and informed him of the situation.

When the captain arrived, he said he found the group marching down Deans St., shouting and making other noises besides singing. The group stopped in front of the Sigma Tau Chi house and Capt. Hayes explained the situation and asked them to leave. The only results he got were catcalls and vulgar remarks, he said. Seeing there was a certain amount of tension in the air, he called President Wenger and asked for his assistance. Upon hearing his call to the president the group moved on.

Dr. Wenger said he mistook the address given him by Capt. Hayes and went to Hackney Hall. Upon arrival he said he found a great number of men students out on the hallways yelling, some using vulgarity and catcalls. There was also a great deal of yelling going on between the men's and women's dorms.

President Wenger said when he asked the boys to break it up he received no response. He then told them they would either break it up or else they would be leaving school. At this point they began to quiet down and headed back toward their rooms.

Later the president met Dean Washer and police officers in front of Haper Hall. He said there still were a number of girls hanging out the windows making catcalls and causing considerable noise. They soon quieted down. By 12:30 a.m. the disturbance had ended.

In an effort to gain a clearer picture of the situation "The Collegiate" interviewed Dr. Wenger, Dean Washer and Capt. Hayes.

Capt. Hayes said what disturbed him most was the tension which seemed to be present within the group and the lack of respect for him and his officers. He said there was no violence, or threats directed toward him, but there were catcalls and a certain amount of vulgarity.

He said he realized boys are going to be boys, and that "spring had sprung," but on the other hand the rights of all must be protected, including the right to sleep. He said if the singing had been held at an earlier hour nothing would have come of the incident, but at 11:30 at night this type of thing involves the infringement of others' rights. He said he felt that if the boys had been more considerate of all, there would probably have been no trouble.

Hayes said he was proud of the excellent relationship that the police department has had with the college in the past, and he said he hoped it would remain so.

Dr. Tucker Resigns Position, With Dr. Paulsell Named Dept. Head

Dr. William E. Tucker, professor of religion and chairman of the Department of Religion and Philosophy at Atlantic Christian College, has resigned his position to accept an appointment as assistant dean of Brite Divinity School and associate professor of church history at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, Texas. His appointment becomes effective September 1, 1966.

Commenting on Dr. Tucker's resignation, Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, ACC president, said, "During his six years of service as a member of the Atlantic Christian College faculty, Dr. Tucker has established himself as a leading teacher and scholar. His influence, however, has reached far beyond the classroom through his active participation in numerous positions of campus, community and church leadership. His contribution to the college is an enduring one and is entirely out of proportion to his six years of service. While we regret losing him, we wish him and his family the very best as he undertakes his new responsibilities at Texas Christian University."

Born in Charlotte, he attended public schools in his native state graduating from Greenville High School in 1949. He received the A.B. degree from Atlantic Christian College in 1953 and earned the B.D. degree at Brite Divinity School of TCU in 1956. He pursued graduate study in the field of church history and was awarded both the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Yale University.

Dr. Tucker joined the faculty of Atlantic Christian in 1959 and since 1961 has served as chairman of the Department of Religion and Philosophy. He was a visiting professor of church history at Christian Theological Seminary in Indianapolis, Ind., in the summer of 1965.

His first book, "J. H. Garrison and Disciples of Christ," was published in 1946 by the Bethany Press. The book is a study of the history and thought of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) from the Civil War to 1930. In addition to the book, he is author of a number of articles and reviews.

He is a member of the Association of Disciples for Theological Discussion, the American Historical Association, the American Society of Church History, the American Academy of Religion, the American Association of University Professors and the Disciples of Christ Historical Society.

Son of Mrs. Ethel G. Tucker of Greenville, N. C., Dr. Tucker is married to the former Miss Jean Jones of Albany, Tex. Mrs. Tucker is a graduate of Texas Christian University. They have

Amendment Must Now Gain Student Body Acceptance

A recommendation was brought before the Executive Board Monday night having to do with the method of electing editors and business managers for The Collegiate and Pine Knot.

The recommendation read, "The Publications Committee recommends to the Executive Board of the Student Government Association of Atlantic Christian College that the procedure for naming publications officers be changed from its present form.

The committee recommends that editors and business managers for the Collegiate and Pine Knot be named by the Publications Committee, subject to approval of the Executive Board, rather than by popular ballot. Students interested in the positions shall have the right to petition the Publications Committee on or before April 15.

It is recommended the change become effective for the 1966-67 academic year, or by the 1967-68 academic year at the latest."

This recommendation was made a motion and after considerable debate was passed. This motion must now be presented to the student body for its approval.

Another item on the agenda was a report by Cookie Wickham on an evaluation study of facilities and programs at ACC. This study dealt with freshman orientation, extra-curricular activities, student employment, parking problems, communications, and library facilities. There were several suggestions made for improvement in these areas. It was suggested that orientation might be provided with buzz sessions and more free time.

Invitation

The Junior Class wishes to invite all juniors to the Junior-Senior Dance, Saturday, April 23, 1966 from 9:00 to 12:30 a.m. at the Cherry Hotel. Dress will be formal.
