Homecoming Filled With Work, Happiness, Sadness

By DIANE TUNNELL

Homecoming is again a memory, but many things remain to he said about it. Actually, homecoming began many weeks ago in plans of homecoming candidates, voting, boards, tacks, and napkins. All those tired people who ripped the interior of their cars up with those huge boxes of napkins still probably feel that everything said in this article is an understatement.

Behind all the original collegiate floats you saw went a great deal of work and, of course, great fun. You can be sure that somewhere out in the cold of a warehouse many busy fingers worked diligently trying to cover yards upon yards of chicken wire with multi-colored napkins. From experience, let the records show that many people had dreams filled with visions of "pinkness," "blueness," and others after finally resting their weary heads early Saturday morning. Several really industrious people did not sleep at all Friday night. This was pretty evident by the dark circles beneath their eyes Saturday. As a result of all the effort, Atlantic Christian had one of the most successful parades ever.

Saturday was indeed a busy day. Early Saturday morning,

Veterans Send Monthly Cards

Note to veterans - in - college - treat your attendance cards like money in the bank, according to W. R. Phillips, Manager of the Winston-Salem VA Regional Office. Sending them to the Veterans Administration will bring a check back to you.

For the month of September only, however, the VA sent payments after receiving just the colleges' verification of enrollment. Colleges should have submitted this after receiving from veter-ans two copies of their Certificate of Eligibility, obtained from Regional VA offices.

If their payments for September are delayed, veterans should see that their schools have verified their enrollment to the VA.

At the end of October, veterans should have mailed their certifications of attendance for the month of October to the VA. The VA will then send payments to veterans November 20. This procedure must be followed each succeeding month.

cars were lined up on Lee Street awaiting their charges. Each held one member of the homecoming court and many pretty flowers. Though it may have seemed impossible, somehow all those cars, floats, and bands finally were blended into a wellorganized parade. The theme of "ACC TV PARADE" came through loud and clear as such floats as Gunsmoke, The Flintstones, and Petticoat Junction came by.

It is amazing how quickly something long planned can slip by when it arrives. Soon the parade was history and a busy day took shape. Saturday was filled with special dinner, joyful reunions of friends, and new friendships begun. Alumni again walked the campus of their alma mater, when and if they could find their way amidst the new buildings. The information booth indeed a good idea for Homecoming 1967. Perhaps the most asked question was in connection with that gigantic "Mining operation" in progress next to the cafeteria. Thankfully no alumni were reported lost in it.

Something new was started this year which may become a tradition at Atlantic Christian. Junior class had as its proiect the selling of white chrysanthemum and blue ribbon corsages. They indeed added to the spirit of the weekend. Thanks must be given to all who participated in this effort.

Saturday night featured .the varsity - alumni game and dances. The gym was full of spectators. The dances after wards in the cafeteria and classroom building were also well attended. As midnight approached many weary feet and drooping eyes headed for home.

Sunday brought the transfor-mation of floats to "great white elephants." Floats must be torn down; this is a fact of life.

For the purpose of getting the cussion during Monday night's reaction of the SGA President Executive Board meeting. It was concerning this incident, and in order that the students might "Tams" broke into a locker in know what action is being taken to prevent actions such as this from happening in the future, we interviewed Dwight Wagner SGA President. Mr. Wagner said, "I feel that it is most unfortunate that an otherwise wonderful Homecoming should be marred by the disgusting conduct of the Tams while they were on our campus. To say that they imposed on our good will and our attempts to treat them well is an understatement.

The damage which they did to the stage will cost an unnecessary expense to be repaired. But we also have suffered in our public relations with the community since it was a borrowed stage that we were using.

Despite the fact that the new Faculty Dressing Room was made available for their use, the Tams maliciously cluttered the room with beer cans and other trash and broke into the locker of a faculty member destroying a new pair of tennis shorts. It is obvious that this was done without the least bit of consideration for anyone or anything.

As a result of this incident the Entertainment Committee sending a letter to the booking agency from whom the Tams were obtained, asking for assistance in collecting damage expenses. A second letter will be sent to the music union that the Tams might belong to. Also, the Executive Board has considered this situation and may feel that it is necessary to adopt a resolution on this matter.'

During the meeting a motion was also passed requesting the SGA president to ask the Day Students to help the Mental Health Association coordinate Operation Santa Claus. This is a state - wide project in which groups collect money and gifts to give to patients in mental institutions

MID-TERM—One again brought students face to face with the ever present evil—the mid-term exam, and to quote one of our faculty members they found that there is "nothing like a cold hard fact".
