

Discipline Committee Discussed

ACC Hosts Over 1,000

More than 1,000 parents of Atlantic Christian College students were on hand for the annual Parents' Week End held on the college campus Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 4-5. It was the largest number of parents to ever attend the activity which was held for the sixth consecutive year.

The two-day event officially opened when the visiting parents were guests at the ACC-Guilford basketball game played in the new Wilson Gymnasium.

Registration began on Sunday morning. Parents attended morning worship services with their children in Howard Chapel on the college campus. Presiding over services and preaching the sermon was Chaplain Dan Hensley Jr. Music was provided by the ACC Chapel Choir with Prof. Charles Rakow directing.

A complimentary luncheon was held in the old Wilson Gymnasium at noon. During the luncheon a program was held with David L. Cleveland, director of development, presiding. Guests were welcomed by Dwight L. Wagner, president of the ACC Student Government Association. Guests were entertained by a musical presentation given by the ACC Chorus with Prof. J. Ross Albert directing. Following the luncheon parents met with members of the faculty and administration and attended a special campus open house. Later in the afternoon the guests attended a social hour in Hines Hall.

Case Gallery Will Exhibit Works of N. C. Artists

The eighth traveling exhibition to be originated by the North Carolina Museum of Art, Drawings by Contemporary North Carolina Artists, will be on view at Case Art Building Gallery, Atlantic Christian College from February 6 to February 27.

Represented in the circulating show are 39 drawings by major North Carolina artists, many living in the State but several now residing elsewhere. Among the latter are Hobson Pittman, native of Tarboro and now of Philadelphia, who has won fame for his canvases of Southern interiors, and Henry Pearson, formerly of Kinston and now of New York City, who has recently come to national attention for his "op" art works.

Artists were invited to submit works for the exhibition on the basis of their past participation in the annual N. C. artists' competitions held at the Museum. Numerous former winners are represented in the current show, among them Gordon Mahy, a Davidson College graduate now living in New York, Russell Arnold of Wilmington, and Claude Howell of Wilmington.

Viewers of the exhibition will see almost all drawing techniques and materials represented—pencil, pen and ink, colored and Chinese ink, charcoal, crayon, tempera, among others. Portraits, still lifes, landscapes, and other categories are included, all on loan from the artists themselves, with the exception of the Pittman and Pearson works which come from the museum's permanent collection.

Some of the drawings are studies for larger works, which were later executed in oils, but most are completed works intended solely as expressions of the drawing medium. In many of these, the artist has built to mass and area by drawing techniques alone, and the viewer will note how successfully these properties were achieved without oils and brush.

The Case Art Building Gallery is open from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mon., Wed., and Friday, and from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. Tuesday and Thurs.

Exec. Board Hears Comments; Pass-Fail Bill Drawn Up

The Discipline and Morale Committee became the subject of considerable discussion at the Executive Board meeting this week. It all began when Dr. Hartsock, chairman of the English department and observer at the meeting, stated, "because of the many rumors that have begun to circulate concerning the operation of this committee and because the integrity of the committee members has been questioned on several occasions I feel someone on the committee needs to say something which might help stop the 'rigamarole' that has been going on concerning this committee."

However, before this was done Hartsock gave her view of the situation. In referring to a case which had been brought before the committee on Friday, February 3, she said, "the rumor that only three members of the committee were present for this case is completely false." She went on to say, "every time the committee has a case rumors immediately begin to spread which unjustly question the integrity of the committee members." She said she was tired of this unfair assailing of the committee. "In this last case the evidence against the student was as clear as any I have ever seen," said Hartsock.

She also expressed the opinion that in order to stop these rumors the facts of cases should be made public. She also suggested that an assembly should be held and the students made aware of the true facts. It was her opinion that many students brought before the committee had taken advantage of the fact that the contents of the meetings were not disclosed and had used this fact to get sympathy. She said, "the integrity of the committee is being undermined and it needs to be stopped." She finished by saying that no faculty member would take a person to the committee in the first place if he didn't have evidence.

Dean Bennett, speaking as a member of the Discipline and Morale committee, also made several statements concerning rumors surrounding the commit-
