The Campus Awareness Committee sponsored a panel discussion last Monday on the problems which face the Discipline and Morale Committee. The panel composed of the Discipline and Morale committee members; Dr. Hemby, Dwight Wagner, Mr. Marshall, Jerry White, Dean Bennett and Mrs. Shackelford. Rick Harrison served as the moderator for the discussion.

Discipline And Morale Committee Subject Of Seminar Discussion

The Discipline and Morale committee served as the panel for a seminar on the D and M committee which was held Monday in the lobby of Hackney Hall. The most obvious thing concerning the seminar was that the student body didn't seem interested, because during a good deal of the seminar the panel was larger than the audience and the attendance never became greater than about thirty people.

The seminar begun with Dr. Hemby, chairman of the committee, being asked to define academic dishonesty involves the felt the question covered too large an area to be defined adequately, but he did say, "Academic dishonesty involved the procedure of lying or stealing in academic work. It involves a failure to footnote properly information that is used in a paper, test, essay, etc. Stealing would be essentially the same, because it involves taking something that does not belong to you and using it as your own."

Dean Bennett, the administrative member of the committee, said, "academic dishonesty is the most serious violation a student can commit, and any student who will permit cheating to go on is compromising his own role as a student."

Mr. Marshall, a faculty member of the committee, added, "we must assume the majority of students are honest. Therefore, those who aren't are a threat to those who are. Rules are made strict to protect the majority."

"Cheating injures the degree by decreasing its value, said Dwight Wagner, a student member.

The feeling was also expressed that if cheating were tolerated then it would affect our whole society since our society is based on some type of order and system of values.

In replying to the question, "why are there varying degrees of penalties for the same type of offense?" Wagner said the committee attempts to look at the total circumstances involved in the violation. Jerry White added to this by stating, "The committee would never suspend someone from school if the violation can be proved to have been accidental."

The committee also emphasized that the student is not at the mercy of the committee when he

If for any reason the student or his advisor feels the trial is unfair then the case can be appealed to the president of the college," stated one member. It was pointed out that the cases involve a good deal of debate and the committee usually spends from two to three hours on each case.

Dean Bennett was asked to define recorded and unrecorded probation. "Unrecorded probation means that no notation is made on the student's permanent transcript. Minutes of the meeting stay in the office of the Dean of Students. A copy is also placed

"Why, Sandra, you don't know how happy I am that you told me. I couldn't have lived with myself knowing that I had missed Stage & Script's production of Truman Capote's 'The Grass Harp.' If I can't make it to the Thursday night performance, I'll certainly go Friday night. I'll do all my homework early and be ready for the 8:15 curtain time." Support YOUR Stage & Script.
