On Friday afternoon the Atlantic Christian College Touring Chorus, the Vocal Ensemble and the Brass Ensemble will embark on their 12th annual tour. Many weeks of planning and practicing have been spent in preparation for the tour this year. And it is hoped that it will be an enjoyable and worthwhile trip for the approximately 60 students that will be participating.

A great variety of works are included on the tour program. This chorus will present works by such well known composers as Bach, Mendelssohn, Roger Wagner, Purcell, Young and Ralph Vaughan - Williams. The Vocal Ensemble which is a smaller group of singers will sing "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs by Karl Heinrich Graun and "Alleluia, Christ Is Risen", by Gordon Young. This year the Brass Ensemble has been included in the tour. They will present a number of works among these are "Two Ayres for Cornets and Sagbuts by John Adson, Three Pieces" by Johann Pezel and "Four Moods for Brass Quintet" by Arthur Harris.

AC College Faculty Respond To Survey

By CHARLES WOLFE

Several weeks ago the Collegiate interviewed a number of students on campus, asking them what they feel to be some of the major strengths and weaknesses of our college. As a follow up to this the Collegiate has once again conducted a survey asking the same questions, but this time asking the faculty's opinion.

As was true with the students, the faculty members saw a major strength of the college to be the close relationship between the faculty, administration, and students. Dr. Tyndall, chairman of the Science department, said, "students are able to feel at ease in the classroom and this helps them to learn faster. The informality of the classroom situation also helps for an interchange of ideas between the teacher and the student. It is not just a one way street. Instead, faculty members also get ideas from the students. This is much different from the atmosphere in graduate school where the pressure is such that the students are always running scared and place more emphasis on memorizing instead of learning."

Mr. Purcell, religion department, also saw the informal relationship between faculty and students as a strength. "It is this type of thing that makes it enjoyable to teach here. I have greatly enjoyed the relationships I have had with students," he said.

Mr. Hollar, science department, stated that he felt a major strength was our reputation as a close knit group in which there are faculty who are very interested in working close with students.

An aspect of the college which seems to be as great, if not a greater, strength of the college as far as the faculty is concerned is the academic freedom which several seemed to feel is very strong here. Mr. Purcell also saw this as one of the greatest strengths of the college and one of the things which he said makes it enjoyable for him to teach at ACC. Dr. Tyndall said, "I am able to teach what I want to teach." Dr. Paulsell also said, "There are no restrictions on what you say or how you teach."

Dr. Capps, chairman of the Social Studies department, said, "A strength of the college is the fact that we have a growing program here, both in the area of physical plant and education. It is a program which is being designed to meet the needs of the future. The quality of education is being stressed, and we are trying to get the best faculty we can. The problem is the universities are not turning out enough graduate students to meet the needs of industry and business along with that of education."

Dr. Hartsock, chairman of the English department, also saw the growing strength of the faculty as a major strength of the college.

Coach Ira Norfolk, director of athletics and head basketball coach, said, "A major strength of the college is the initiative demonstrated by a predominant portion of faculty, staff, and students to improve the overall operation of the school."

The faculty also had a few things to say about the weaknesses of the college. Although some were reluctant to enter into this area there were several interesting responses.

Mr. Purcell, responded by saying, "As a 'weekday drive-in college' we find it difficult to become a community of scholars to say the least. I think this is

Meals To Be Catered By ARA-Slater Service

Atlantic Christian College has entered into a contract with ARA - Slater to provide food service for Atlantic Christian beginning with the first summer school session of 1967.

Under the new food service plan boarding students will be entitled to 21 meals per week including a choice of entries, vegetables, salads, breads and desserts. Seconds will be available at no extra charge on all items except prime meats and desserts. All beverages will be unlimited. Menus may be posted at least one week in advance.

Boarding students will pay boarding charges through the business office as they have in the past and will be fed on a basis of identification mutually agreeable to ARA-Slater and the college. Boarding charges will be $50 per term for summer school and $175 per semester for the 1967 - 68 school year.

Meals will be available to day students, faculty, staff and visitors at the following prices: breakfast, 65 cents; lunch, 85 cents; and dinner, $1.00; Sunday dinner, $1.25. The same privileges apply on seconds. Faculty members who wish to do so may have a five-day per week lunch program for $66 per semester.

In deciding to turn to a professional organization for food service, Atlantic Christian is following a trend already set by many schools in North Carolina. The ARA-Slater organization is currently handling the food service for 15 colleges in North Carolina including Elon, Guilford, Louisburg, Davidson, N. C. State, UNC at Greensboro and Wake Forest. Before deciding on the Slater organization college officials received proposals from five other food catering organizations.

Greeks Have Week's Fling

By JOHN HYSON

This is what you missed, if you aren't a Greek that is.

Back in September the Interfraternity Council and the Pan-Hellenic Council began plans for Greek Week. Committees were formed, agents were contacted and votes were taken, and it was decided to have the "Fabulous Five" for our big dance with the "Showmen" for a show. Next, the events for the week were planned, and the individual organizations began working on their own contributions.

The first event of the week was the carnival for the whole campus. Everybody was throwing cream cups, basketballs, softballs, or swinging a sledgehammer. There seemed to be a majority of non-Greeks in on the enjoyment.

The remaining activities were for Greeks and their dates only; and this is what you non-Greeks missed. Thursday evening the Greeks showed their talent and stunt selections. Further competition for Greek Week trophies took place Friday evening when we showed our singing prowess.

After the Greek sing, each Fraternity went to their Fraternity parties. Alpha Sigma Phi had entertainment by the "Notations" at the Alpha Sig house, Delta Sigma Phi and Sigma Phi Epsilon joined in at the Shrine Club featuring the "Tropics," and Sigma Pi had the "Esquires" at Wedgewood Country Club.

Saturday afternoon the Greeks hosted a Faculty reception at the Woman's Club building where Greek Week and scholar-
