

Annual Procession Marks Event

New Queen Is Crowned At Concert

A week of anticipation was climaxed Friday night, November 10, as Kay Oglesby and Drenda Skinner shared the homecoming crown. Little Anthony and the Imperials, backed up by the Town Criers, provided the entertainment for the coronation festivities.

It was a night of nights for ACC. The contest for homecoming queen was so close that there was a tie for the favored title as well as for first runner-up. As intermission time approached, Doug Dexter stepped up to the mike to introduce the contestants for Homecoming Queen of ACC; Clara Grantham, Priscilla Jeanette, Drenda Skinner, Diane Massengill, Carolyn Darden, Toni Rothrock, Kay Oglesby, Olivia Smith, Nancy Swanson, Cindy Bottoms, Linda Whitt Alice Browder, Connie Willis, DeAnna Harmon, Mary Sue Kennedy, and Jill Matthews. Mrs. Frances Turner, alumni queen, was on hand to crown the new queen. As tension mounted the M.C. revealed the names of the two first runners-up, Jill Matthews and Connie Willis. Then the moment of moments arrived as Kay Oglesby and Drenda Skinner were crowned as co-winners of the 1967 Homecoming Queens.

Despite a few repercussions, the concert went off extremely well. Little Anthony came through with such favorites as "Its Not Unusual," "Take Me Back," "Going Out of My Head," and "Get Me to the Church on Time." The red clad quartet also sang a melody of hits for the homecoming crowd.

"The Town Criers" of Norfolk, Virginia, also proved to be a brilliant asset to the festivities. Homecoming was indeed the week that was.

Homecoming Is Filled With Plenty Of Work, Fun And Good Times!

1967 Parade Is Highlight Of Weekend

It was a hectic week to say the least. But, somehow, everything was ready and in regal splendor just in the nick of time. It was Homecoming — 1967. Saturday was parade day.

The parade included 31 units consisting of 12 floats, 4 bands, and the homecoming contestants. Through a slight miracle and much work the parade managed to start on time at 11 a.m. The Phi Mu's came out on top in the sorority division with their float "October." Columbus' boat, the Nina, was depicted in honor of Columbus Day, October 12.

The senior class float, representing September, won first place in class honors. The theme of the float was "Skool Days" with Mary and her wolly pal. "Out with the old, In with the new" was the theme for Delta Sigma Phi's winner in the fraternity division. The month January was represented by the legendary stork with its bundle of happiness.

Floats

The other floats included: May, "Happy Mother's Day," by the junior class; June, a "Junebug," by Sigma Phi Epsilon; July, July 4 celebration, Sigma Pi; August, surf board and Jalopy, Alpha Sigma Phi; November, "The Grapes of Wrath," freshman class; February, "Love Makes the World Go Round," Sigma Sigma Sigma; March, "In Like a Lion, Out Like a Lamb," sophomore class; April "Slowly but Surely, Spring has Sprung," Delta Zeta; and of course the Queens' Float.

Election Results Reveal Tie For Queen's Title

The 1967 Homecoming Queen results made history at Atlantic Christian College. Never before in the institution's 65 year history has there been a tie for the Homecoming crown.

But the record did not stop there. There was also a tie for the first runner-up. This development resulted in the elimination of the third and second runner-up titles.

The two girls were accorded the honor of Homecoming Queens instead of the traditional single queen because of a tie in campus-wide elections.

Named Homecoming Queens were Kay Oglesby of Chesapeake, Va., and Drenda Skinner of Wilson. The queens were crowned in a special ceremony held in New Wilson Gymnasium Friday night by Mrs. Frances Turner of Pink Hill, who was serving as Alumni Queen for the event. Mrs. Turner was Atlantic Christian's 1943 Homecoming Queen.

A junior, Miss Oglesby is the daughter of Mrs. N. R. Oglesby 1211 Centerville Turnpike Road, Chesapeake, Va. Sponsoring the queen was Sigma Pi Fraternity.

Miss Skinner is a senior at AC and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Boykin, 302 Thurston Drive, Wilson. Her sponsor was Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

Runners-up in the election and serving in the Homecoming Queen's Court were Carolyn Darden of Boykins, Va.; Jill Matthews of Nashville, Linda Leigh Whitt of Roxboro; and Connie Willis of Morehead City.

Miss Matthews of Phi Mu and Miss Willis of Tri-Sig were the co-winners of first runner-up.
