Vietnam Still Issue In Campus Politics

By JIM BUSSELL

Disagreement, words and tempers flared openly at Monday night's meeting of the Executive Board over a letter sent to the board from a student requesting permission to display literature supporting America's stand in Vietnam.

Frank Harper, a senior, had written a letter stating his desire to display the literature in the lobby of Hines Hall Tuesday through Friday. In the letter Harper said that the display would open two petitions to the students, that of the campus awareness committee and a support of our position in Vietnam view. He went on to state in the letter that the display would also provide "the opportunity to the presidents of the Young Republicans Club, Young Democrats Club and Young Americans for Freedom to display literature telling about their organizations."

Insult

"I take this as a personal insult," exclaimed Bobby Dunn, member of the Campus Awareness Committee and Day Student President, after the letter had been presented before the Board. "I met with the man personally, and I don't see the relevance of this at all!"

Of the absent Harper, Student Government President Doug Dexter stated: "He (Harper) either misunderstands the purpose of the committee, (Campus Awareness Committee), he mistrusts the committee or we have something personal here." Dexter went on to say, "It used to be the administration that was called 'them,' now it is Barry (Havens) and his committee (Campus Awareness)."

Objection

Dunn objected to the letter because the display would include literature of the Young Americans for Freedom: "We cannot place our sanction on this re-

Attend State Convention

The Young Republican Club of ACC recently made news at the fall convention of the North Carolina College Republican Federation. Three resolutions submitted by the local chapter met unanimous approval by the convention delegates. The resolutions concerned the Panama Canal treaty to be considered by the U. S. Senate, trade by the United States with Communist nations, and the United Nations economic sanctions against Rhodesia. "The Fighting Elephant," monthly newsletter of the ACC organization, was distributed to the convention delegates. Pat Wylie, Harold Herring, Paul Latta, Kenneth O'Connell, Herman Slate, and Claiborne Perkins represented the ACC group. ### The Two Biggest Headaches Before Death Are Taxes And Registration

By MIKE ROACH

"Betty, what time have you got Western Civ.?"

"I've got it at eight on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday."

"Lord, have mercy on you! I've heard that (censored) teachers that section. They tell me that he flunked 80 per cent of all the freshmen in his class last year and this semester he is shooting for an all time high. I sure hope I get closed out of English. The teacher I got now is so hard that the only way to pass is hope a slight error in addition or division breaks my string of F's into some grades that is more fairer."

"May I have your attention — American Social Institutions is closed."

"Betty, I guess they have a list of the courses I'm taking and are beginning to call them one by one, again this semester. After I get something to take in its place, they'll call the next one. The two biggest headaches before death are taxes and registration!"

"Jane, you know good and well that you are imagining all of this. You have the same chance that everyone else has and they won't close you out any quicker than . . ."

"May I have your attention . . . Healthful Living is closed on . . ."

"Betty, that's second on my list. I guess my Guardian Angel just plain takes a day off on registration day."

Grin?

Yes, it always happens on that particular day each year. Some don't get this while others don't get that. You just have to grin and bare it and was there a lot of grinning on Wednesday.

Registration is held in the gym because it is a campus wide athletic conference. Students line up

Though the posters are long gone, the issue over America's involvement in Vietnam remains a lively issue on campus. Monday night's Executive Board meeting left an aura of mystery around the Campus Awareness Committee and left Board members even more confused over campus war displays.

With Organized Recreation

Opening Date For New Center Draws Nearer

By JOYCE COPELAND

The days of walking by that splendid mass of concrete and steel between Hardy Dining Hall and Hackney are soon to be by-gone. The Atlantic Christian College Student Center is about to become a long-awaited reality.

The center should open shortly after the Christmas holidays according to Mrs. Nan Herndon, Program Director for the Student Center. The only holdup now would be a shipping delay. Otherwise everything is ready for the green light.

The new student center will include a game room with Ping-Pong tables, pool tables, a color television, and various table games. This room should have a capacity of about 70-80 people. Downstairs with the game room will be the snack bar, bookstore, post office, and offices for student personnel.

Recreation

The Editor of the "New Exponent" campus publication of Tennessee Wesleyan College, has written to the Collegiate to find out how Atlantic Christian's chapel system is set up. It seems that the students up there dislike their compulsory chapel system. Sounds familiar, doesn't it? Do you have any suggestions as to how we should reply to their letter?

The dining hall will occupy the upper level.

The center will provide not only a meeting place but an organized program of recreation for the student body. Mrs. Herndon and the Bohunk Committee hope to have tournaments, coffee hours and special guests scheduled. The weekday hours will be from 9-10:30 p.m. with an 11 p.m. closing hour on weekends. Mrs. Herndon stated, "We are looking forward to the opening of the student center and to the establishment of a program that will be of interest to our student body."

Months of anticipation are about to reach their climax. This new addition to our campus should be a welcome spot for fellows with flat pocketbooks by providing a delightful but inexpensive date. Everyone hold on for the final countdown, it should be well worth the wait.

Approval Is Result Of A "Self Study"

Atlantic Christian College officials have been notified of the continuation of its accreditation for a 10 year period by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The announcement came at a meeting of the association held in Dallas, Tex. earlier this week.

The action was a result of a "Self Study" conducted by the college over a period of two years and a campus visit by a group of noted educators. The educators held a series of conferences, interviewed members of the college community and reviewed the "Self Study."

The Self Study was an in-depth investigation by members of the college faculty and administration. It covered every aspect of the operation of the college including legal, financial, academic, physical, religious, promotional, philosophical and procedural.

Atlantic Christian's program of teacher education was fully approved and accredited by the N. C. State Board of Education under the board's new approach to certification of public school teachers in 1965. The college has been approved under the old state system for a number of years.

In 1966, the college received accreditation from the National Council on Accreditation for Teacher Education (NCATE) in the highest category of national accreditation from the agency.

Dance Cancelled Due To Conflict

The Christmas Dance scheduled for December 9 has been cancelled according to Toni Rothrock, chairman of the Social Committee. The cancellation was due to a conflicting basketball game with East Carolina University. The dance will be held on March 8 from 8-12 p.m. It will feature the Monzas from Burlington.
