

Students Choose McCarthy In Campus Mock Election

If ACC students controlled the 1968 presidential election, Sen. Eugene McCarthy would move into the White House early in 1969.

Over 400 students participated in the mock election held last week on campus, in which McCarthy led the presidential ticket and Jim Gardner took the lead for North Carolina governor. The results of the mock election, sponsored by John Lee Whitley's political science class, showed the following statistics:

Governor

For N.C. governor, Jim Gardner, 158; Bob Scott, 113; Mel Broughton, 98; Jack Stickley, 16; and Dr. Reginald Hawkins, 13. For U.S. president, Sen. Eugene McCarthy, 104; former vice-president Richard Nixon, 94; former Alabama governor George Wallace, 55; Sen. Robert Kenedy, 39; Governor Nelson Rockefeller, 27; Gov. Ronald Reagan, 18; President Lyndon Johnson, 17; New York City Mayor John Lindsay, 4; and Gov. Mark Hatfield, 1.

Write-Ins

Also for the presidential race, Vice-President Hubert Humphrey received two write-in votes.

The mock election, officially dubbed "Choice 68," was simultaneously conducted on more than 2,000 college campuses across the nation. The program was led by 11 student leaders from various regions of the United States, who comprised the Board of Directors. Cost of the campaign was borne by Time magazine as a public service.

Some six million college students were eligible to vote in the mock elections, which was the first national polling of student preferences in a presidential election year.

Dexter Is Awarded $4,000 Scholarship

Douglas M. Dexter of Dudley, a senior at Atlantic Christian College, has been awarded a two-year scholarship to pursue graduate studies at Richmond Professional Institute, Richmond, Va.

The scholarship, valued at over $4,000 per year plus tuition and fees, was awarded by the South Carolina Mental Hospital, Columbia, S. C.

While at RPI, Dexter will be working toward the Master of Social Work degree with emphasis in group social work. He is scheduled to be graduated from Atlantic Christian on May 31 with an A.B. degree in religion and philosophy. He is minoring in psychology.

For the past eight months, he has been engaged in a research project concerning chronic alcoholism in Wilson County. The work was done in conjunction with a special class project and the Wilson County Alcoholic Information Center. He is scheduled to present a paper on the project at a seminar on the college campus on April 30.

During the current academic year he has served as president of the ACC Student Government Association. A member of Sigma Pi fraternity, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary M. Dexter, Rt. 1, Dudley.

Johnston Named Head For Chapter

Hugh B. Johnston Jr., assistant professor of modern language, has been elected as president of the North Carolina Chapter of the American Association of Teachers of French.

Johnston was named to the post at the annual spring meeting of the organization held at Duke University on April 27. Prior to the election he had served as vice president of the organization.

Golden Will Speak Here

Harry Golden, editor and publisher of "The Carolina Israelite" and author of a number of best-selling books, will address the student body during the 11 a.m. Convocation, Tuesday.

Students have also been invited to an informal reception honoring Golden between 3:15 and 4:15 p.m. that afternoon in the gallery of the Case Art Building. During the reception, students and faculty will have an opportunity to talk with the editor-author about his work.

Among Golden's most notable books are "Only In America," "Enjoy, Enjoy," "Forgotten Pioneer" and "The Spirit of the Ghetto."

"Crucible" On Sale

Literary-Art Magazine Is Currently Available

The spring issue of "Crucible," a magazine of creative ideas, is now available. The magazine is published bi-annually by the Departments of Art and English at Atlantic Christian College and is considered by critics across the state as one of the finest literary-art magazines being published today.

The spring issue includes poems, short stories and essays by both student and professional writers. It also includes art works executed in a variety of media. There are two art features, one being paintings and graphics by Norbert W. Irvine, and the other a series of photographs by Milton Roger. The centerfold is a three-color wood block, printed from the original blocks and individually signed by the artist, Bebe Gower.

Copies may be obtained in the lobby of Hines Hall and the Case Art Building Gallery. Price is $1 per copy.

AC Students Demonstrate Against IBM

Kenneth O'Connell and Harold Herring Jr., students at Atlantic Christian College, participated in a demonstration against IBM in Raleigh last week. The group, led by Herring of La Grange and composed of members of the North Carolina chapter of Young Americans for Freedom, protested that company's sale of computers to Communist bloc countries. The other three students in the group were from Duke and N. C. State.

According to Herring, the picketing in Raleigh was in conjunction with the annual meeting of the IBM stockholders in Boston. The national YAF group is leading a group of stockholders opposed to East-West trade.

College Sets Awards Day

The annual Intercollegiate Awards Day is scheduled for 11:00 a.m. Tuesday, May 21. All varsity and freshman intercollegiate athletic participants will be honored at this time and several special awards will be given.

New ACC Production Is Parable On Love

By ALICE NASH
The Stage and Script of Atlantic Christian College will present the musical hit "The Fantasticks" on May 13, 17 and 18 at 8:15 p.m. in Howard Chapel.

The ACC production will be directed by Paul Crouch, head of the Dramatics program, and stage managed by Judy Youngblood and Fran Johnson.

The cast includes Bill Griffin as El Gallo the Narrator, Cordelia Lewis as Luisa the Girl, Bob Noble as Matt the Boy, John Mayfield as the Girl's father, John Cedarberg as the Boy's father, Reggie Smith as the Mute, Fred Edwards as Mortimer and J. Ross Albert as Henry the old Shakespearean actor.

The play, written by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, is a simple but beautiful parable about love. It is staged on a platform with no scenery except that which can be kept in the prop-box and provided by the mute property man.

There have been more than 700 productions of "The Fantasticks" throughout the world. It is still playing to capacity audiences at the Sullivan Street Theatre in Greenwich Village, and has been running for eight years.

Tell It Like It Is!

The question for this week is: "Should the present electoral college be abolished?" Students and faculty members answered a recent poll. Here are some of the answers:

Heck, yes. It should be abolished, mainly because the majority of the vote in the state is not always the majority vote of the electoral college of the state. The electoral college often votes the way they want to vote instead of representing the vote of the people in the area they represent. I feel that the majority of the vote of the people should be the final decision. S. P. (student)

In many ignorant countries, this system would work, but in the United States, with its educational system, people should be able to represent their own vote in elections. K. G. (student)

I think we should have an electoral college. The reason being, its vote is more regional. T. O. (student)

Yes, definitely. I feel the presidential election should be held in the same context as senators and representatives. Total popular vote equals a more fair representation of the people. M. R. (student)

I don't think it should be abolished.
