

SGA Officers Installed Tuesday

By JIM BUSSELL
Joe Wilkins, rising senior of Portsmouth, Va., was officially installed as president of the Student Government Association during Convocation Tuesday. Dr. Robert E. Bennett, dean of students and administrative advisor to the Executive Board, formally installed Wilkins and other elected representatives to the board.

Wilkins promised to strive for social reforms on campus. "In the recent SGA elections, 898 students voted . . . for social change." President Wilkins declared, "It is up to the new Executive Board as representatives of the students to use all legal means possible to accomplish these social reforms." "The time for campaigning has come to an end and now the work must begin," he said. "The new board has a common goal, that of social reform."

Wilkins noted, however, that the board will be ineffective without the aid of the individual students. "The new Executive Board," he stated, "can only accomplish desired changes by working together for social change, for only by working together will we be able to accomplish anything."

"We are on the brink of a new era at Atlantic Christian; an era where the student assumes more and more responsibility for governing himself." If the students will not accept responsibility for their actions, however, "the social conditions here will remain as they have been for the last 66 years, backward and archaic."

"It is up to me, Joe Wilkins," he continued, "to represent the best interests of the student body."

. . . I pledge to you, the student body, that I will use all the resources at my disposal to accomplish these goals (social reforms)."

Ending his address with a quote, Wilkins repeated a statement made by Edward Hale, former chaplain of the U.S. Senate:

"I am only one, but I am me. I

Banquet Honors Elected Officers

By JIM ABBOTT

The annual SGA Installation Banquet was held on Monday night in the Student Center cafeteria. Over 50 student leaders and administrators attended the affair.

After devouring the steak dinner, outgoing SGA President Byron Wyndham distributed certificates of appreciation to those in attendance who had participated in SGA activities this year and to the members of the outgoing Executive Board. The Freshman Class presented Wyndham a clay "peace" pipe on which was inscribed the words, "A pipe with which to keep the peace."

President Wyndham then offered a few nostalgic remarks concerning his year as SGA President. Wyndham stated that this has been a year of change and challenge.

Incoming President Joe Wilkins restated his desire that the coming year will be a year of "social change" and asked for the full cooperation of all in fulfilling these plans.

Wyndham then introduced the guest speaker for the evening,

David Lloyd, outgoing SGA President at East Carolina University. Lloyd centered his

Registration Dates Slated

Advanced registration for summer and fall semesters will begin April 22. On that date students will meet with faculty advisers to receive class schedules. Only those who have paid the required $50 advance deposit will be eligible to pre-register for the fall semester. Advance deposit is not required for summer school registration.

Individual conferences with faculty advisers will be scheduled April 23 through April 28. At this time the student will fill out his official registration form and give it back to his adviser. At the end of this period, these forms will be turned in to the registrar's office. Class cards will be pulled by the registrar's office, first rising seniors, then juniors and sophomores.

Rising seniors may report to See REGISTRATION Page 2

Tell It Like It Is!

Our question for this week is: Do you think that women students should be allowed to wear Bermudas and-or slacks to class? In a random sampling students and faculty members gave these answers.

Yes. We have set a double standard in the dress codes for students here at A.C. These rules definitely need to be changed. — P. L. (Student)

No. I feel that it would lower the general standard of appearance of the whole student body. — S. G. (faculty)

Yes. They would be better than seeing girdles and other underpinnings. — L. K. (student)

Slacks have become so generally accepted in polite society that it would be stretching a point to reject them. As for bermudas, I am a young man for my years, so say no more! I can't see how they could be any more distracting than a miniskirt. — H. B. J. (faculty)

Yes. Rather than have the gates of hell agape, why not just package them? — C. M. (student)

No. I feel that the ones who would wear them would not use good taste in their dress. — G. B. (student)

I couldn't care less. — W. O. P. (faculty)

Neil Simon Comedy To Be Given May 1

By ROBBY KOELLING

"Barefoot in the Park" opens May 1 for a three-day run in Howard Chapel. Presented by Stage and Script, the play is free to all ACC students.

Written by Neil Simon, "Barefoot" is one of the brightest comedies to come along in recent years. The story concerns the misadventures of a newly married couple, Corie and Paul. The problem is simple — at first Paul, a beginning lawyer, must settle down to his job after six days of marriage.

Corie, a rather scatterbrained and flighty girl, is by no means ready to end the honeymoon. The situation is complicated by Corie's choice of an apartment — a six-flight walkup, with rather questionable neighbors.

Victor Velesco, for example, is a 58-year-old man who needs to crawl through a window in

Proctor Interviews Set April 21-May 2

Interviews for proctor candidates for summer and fall session will be held between April 21 and May 2, according to an announcement by Dean Lozier.

All interested male students should report by April 23 to the Dean's secretary in order to fill out a proctor application and make an appointment for an interview. It is not a prerequisite that the candidates be residents of the dormitory at this time, and Dean Lozier encourages all interested persons to make application. Decisions on all applicants will be made prior to May 15.

Alcohol Regulations Provide For Grand Political Finale

By JOYCE COPELAND

"The evil demon alcohol should not be permitted to touch the undefiled lips of ACC students," pronounced the pope of Atlantic Christian, Rev. Paul Land. The statement occurred when Land moved to remove the alcohol regulations resolution from the table at the April 9 Executive Board meeting.

PAUL LAND "Costuming"

The board was in a "ready for anything" mood as it closed out its political career at AEC. William Perkinson's resolution would allow students to possess and consume alcoholic beverages in their residence halls. Alcohol would not be allowed at on-campus functions.

Al Cooke, known to the board as "Mr. Constitution," told the board that approximately 95 per cent of all heroin addicts once drank alcohol. He did note the biblical passage in which Christ turned water to wine stating that a little spirit was all right.

Board philosopher, William Perkinson, negated the Cooke statistics and left the board in hysterics with his statement that "100 per cent of all heroin addicts once drank milk." His quote from second Timothy assured the board that one should "drink a little wine for thy stomach's sake."

Steve Dollar questioned the feasibility of the bill. The conditions in dorm make study hard enough, thus he urged the board to consider the noise this addition to the rules and regulations would involve.

Land, who provided costuming for the affair, commented on the vagueness of the current rules. Perkinson also questioned the ability to enforce current rules. The board, paving the way for the Wilkins administration, approved the proposal.

With a bit of nostalgia and some manipulating of Robert's Rules, the board closed its final meeting and a huge sigh of relief filled the air.
