Men's Chorus At AC

IMOGENE THOMAS of the University of Pittsburgh Men's Chorus is the oldest extracurricular organization on campus of the University of Pittsburgh. The Chorus visited campus Tuesday and presented an entertaining program of music. The repertoire of the Men's Chorus included a wide variety of music featuring selections to fit the tastes of a college audience.

The University of Pittsburgh Men's Chorus is presently participating in its 80th concert season, involving a ten day touring concert in the states of North Carolina, Washington, Kentucky, and Illinois. The Chorus is under the direction of Mr. Philip S. Cavanaugh, a graduate of Indiana State and Columbia Universities.

The University of Pittsburgh Men's Chorus began their concert by performing a sacred number entitled, "God's Son Has Made Me Free" by Grieg. The Chorus chose "One Hundred and Twenty-One" by the French composer, Milhaud, for its next selection. Included among their contemporary selections was "The Mole" and "The Clam", in which the Chorus imitated skillfully the sounds of these animals.

Board Reveals Few Changes

By JIM ABBOTT

The newly elected 1970-71 SGA Executive Board met for the first time Monday night to begin its official year of legislative activity. Presiding over the meeting was President Joe Harwood who welcomed the new board and expressed his hope that the coming year would be a fruitful one. Harwood then read a letter from Dean Whitehurst which revealed that Atlantic Christian has been added to the list of colleges waiting to appear on the GE College Bowl.

The letter went on to announce that the Student Life Committee has approved for a one year trial period, the unchaperoned visitation of girls in fraternity houses. However, the letter stipulated that visitation would be allowed during certain hours designated by the committee and that the privilege would begin next fall and would not be extended to freshmen women. In addition, parental permission would be required for those girls who make use of the visitation opportunities.

One final point noted in the letter was that in compliance with a motion passed by the old Executive Board, a stamp machine has been placed at the student center information desk.

Under the area of New Business, Interdormitory President, Sam Clarke moved that the Executive Board recommended to the Administrative Council that Whitehead Annex be kept open. In arguing for the motion, Clarke noted that close bonds of friendship exist between the Annex residents and also that he felt the option for low-cost housing should be kept available for students. Clarke also mentioned that, "well over 100 students from the men's dorms had signed petitions supporting the drive to keep the Annex open."

Dean Whitehurst explained to the board that the decision to close the Annex was made by the Student Life Division about three months ago both for financial reasons and the lack of sanitary conditions in the Annex.

Clarke then replied that he had checked with both Dr. Wenger and Milton Adams and they both assured him that the Annex was not a financial burden on the college. "As for the unsanitary conditions," Clarke said, "the maintenance department has all but completely eliminated any problems in that area."

Dean Whitehurst then commented that he was not, "here to debate with Mr. Clarke over the issue. The board then voted and the motion was passed."

In other business, Rick Stewart, Day Student President moved that on Sundays the library open at 3 p.m. instead of 6 p.m. This was also passed.

Stewart then announced that a meeting to nominate candidates for Day Student offices was held Monday and the candidates are for President — Bob Moore and Rick Stewart; for Senator, Rudy Farmer, and Bert Crawford.

The board then gave authorization for the Day Student elections and the elections to approve the recently passed constitutional amendments to be held this Thursday and Friday.

Following several announcements, the board adjourned.

ACC Rock Festival

By JIM ABBOTT

"Illumination of the Mind," is a four part rock concert which will be presented in the Old Gym at 8 p.m. on Monday, April 27.

The show, which is part of the Student Contemporary Night, was written and produced by two A.C. students, Howard Martin, a junior and Tom Albert, a senior. Martin and Albert began work on the show in December. "The show started out to be a religious piece," said Martin, "but now its just an example of some creative effort."

In producing the show, Martin and Albert have enlisted additional assistance from both the college community and from Wilson. Assisting with the production are Steve Bassett, John Stout, Alan Powell, and Grady Ormsby.

The performance will be divided into two parts with the first half featuring the "Martin synthesizer," a four-foot high light box which Howard will use to conduct in concert an assortment of undesignated musical instruments. Also included in the first half will be selections by A.C. Students, Diane Bishop, Adelle Miller, and Ron Taylor.

The second part of the show consists of a mixture of the Martin and Albert rock music combined with lyrics which tell the story of people trying to find themselves and find out what they are in the world today. At one point a play entitled, "Well Here We Are" which was written by Grady Ormsby, a Darden High School English teacher, will be inserted into the performance.

In discussing the concert Martin said, "The show is unique because its the first real original rock ever done by some A.C. students." He went on to say that he expects student criticism about the performance because, "its just not the kind of music that the majority of AC students have been exposed to." Martin added that, "The show will be dedicated to Conrad Willis, the AC student whose recent death has had a profound effect on many students."

All students and faculty are invited to attend the performance, no admission will be charged.
