3 Plays

IMOGENE THOMAS

Stage and Script, the dramatics organization on campus, presented three one-act plays April 30-May 1, in Howard Chapel. "Conquest of Everest", "Aria da Capo", and "Zoo Story" were skillfully student-directed.

The first play presented was "Aria da Capo", by Edna St. Vincent Millay, which was directed by Kathy Hartenstine. The play was a tragic-comic fantasy written in the twenties. Millay's play satirizes society, in which man tends to build imaginary walls between himself and his fellow man. ACC students participating in the production included Mike Cooper, Evelyn Twilley, and Morris Green.

The second play was "Conquest of Everest", a romantic comedy by Arthur Hays Sulzberger, directed by Suzette Brown. Larry Stowers and Anne Tait played a young couple on tour who venture on the top of Mount Everest. Robby Bellamy portrays the part of a Chinese soldier. The young couple conquered the mountain. For them love was found where love was not sought.

Edward Albee's play, "Zoo Story", was directed by Rachel Warwick. Carl Holliday and Steve Hunt portray the role of two men who met one Sunday afternoon in the park. The play is a strong statement on the alienation of man and society.

Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority sponsored a shoe shine in front of Hines Hall yesterday. Proceeds will go towards postage of letters written to Hanoi concerning U.S. prisoners. Tri Sig is working with the National League of Families in South East Asia.

Crucible Gets Grant

The North Carolina Arts Council has awarded a $1,000 grant to "Crucible," a literary and art magazine at Atlantic Christian College. It is the third grant which the journal has received from the state council.

In a letter to the editors of the publication, Charles Springman, program associate of the arts council commented on the good use which "Crucible" has made of its previous grants. For two years the magazine has sponsored a statewide contest for writers for which prizes totaling more than $1,300 have been given.

The May issue of "Crucible" is now being offered for sale by the ACC English and Art Departments which are jointly responsible for it. Dr. Mildred Hartssock, literary editor, states that the new issue features poems by Thad Stem Jr., of Oxford, as well as the winning pieces of poetry and fiction in the 1970 contest for writers in the state. Winners this year were Dr. Paul Baker Newman of the Queens College faculty, Dr. Thomas Walters of the N. C. State University faculty, Mrs. Pat Outlaw Cooper of Wilson, Stephen Wax of Brooklyn, N.Y. and Peter Brown of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Russell Arnold, art editor of "Crucible," states that the art work in the new issue features the pottery and sculpture of James A. Knecht, a member of the art faculty at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Copies of "Crucible" may be purchased in the ACC Art Gallery or in the offices of the Department of English at the College.

Youth To Set Ethics

By IMOGENE THOMAS

Dr. B. Frank Hall is pastor of Pearsall Memorial Presbyterian Church, and Chairman of the Department of Religion, University of N. C. at Wilmington. Dr. Hall visited our campus Tuesday and in a very provocative presentation encountered those present with some updated thoughts concerning our present day disturbed society.

Dr. Hall centered his comments around the problems of the tragic world in which we find ourselves. At the outset of his talk, Hall noted the wave of restlessness in our present day world. He pointed out that there is something wrong with our society, government, and world. Cries continue to be heard by those in our deteriorating society, but no one ventures out to help his fellow man.

Commenting on the present generation, Hall noted that, "the younger generation shows commendable and sometimes disturbing restraint." The explosion of our society began with the Renaissance, when man began to look at the world around him with cultivating eyes. Hall turned to Pope Leo X, who said to his cardinal that "God has given us the Papacy, so let us now enjoy it."

Hall went on to say that man must change the way he looks at the world, God, and himself. The problem of modern thinking is to find a place for values in a world of facts. In regards to man, Hall noted that every individual is a design of God, with a high and noble purpose. Man must make his life as noble as possible.

Hall stated that "the younger generation does not exhibit juvenile impatience." The younger generation is more aware of tragedy which engulfs our world.

Dr. Hall concluded on a note that it is up to youth to create a sense of genuine worth in the earth. Hall appealed to the audience to join with God and youth in saving our world from such a destructive end.

Board Meets

By JIM ABBOTT

Incumbent Day Student President, Rick Stewart and Day Student Senator Candidate, Rudy Farmer prompted a called meeting of the executive board last Thursday evening.

Stewart and Farmer, in a letter to S.G.A. President, Joe Harwood, expressed concern over voting procedures in the recent Day Student elections. A motion was made by Stewart, who was a candidate in the election, to declare the election invalid and set a new slate for elections.

The source of complaint was an alleged statement in the constitution prohibiting campaigning within 50 feet of the poles as well as the requirement of presenting I.D. cards in order to vote.

Stewart told the board, "It's quite evident irregularities have been present here...A person cannot vote in private if someone is campaigning at the polls as he is handed his ballot." In reference to I.D.'s Stewart explained that there was no way of distinguishing the identity of day students. He assured the board, after questioning, that he did not campaign himself and that he placed his name on the ballot, "solely for the purpose of providing a choice."

Patty Wilkerson, senior senator and head of the elections committee, explained the voting procedure to the board. She read the regulations regarding voting procedure as they had been handed to her by her predecessor.

The general concern of the debate centered around the existence of regulations regarding campaigning at the polls and showing of an I.D. No such rules were found by any of the board members.

Stewart appealed to the reason of the board stressing the ethical implications of the issue. Dunn retaliated, "We are going by the book, not by what is right or what we think is right. There is no ruling on this matter whatsoever." Dunn emphasized the fact that some measures should, however, be taken in this area.

Harwood told the board that under present regulations, no rule was broken. Question was called and the board defeated the motion to invalidate the elections.

The regular SGA Executive Board Monday night expressed its approval of President Nixon's recent action of sending military troops into Cambodia. The sparsely attended meeting was almost over when Jerry Broyal, Junior class Senator, moved that the, "Executive Board of the SGA of A.C.C. go on record as opposing President Nixon's move of sending American troops into Cambodia. Upon approval of this motion letters should be sent to our Senators and CONGRESSMEN EXPRESSING OUR PROTEST TO President Nixon's use of American troops for an invasion of Cambodia."

After Broyal finished reading the motion, complete silence fell over the Board and several red-faced Board members cast uncomfortable glances at one another. But the silence persisted, no one seconded the motion, and President Harwood declared the motion defeated.

In an interview following the meeting, Broyal told the COLLEGIATE that, "It's really a conservative Board we have. I didn't think the motion would
