Cayton Sets SGA Goals For Next Year

Robert Cayton will soon be installed as president of the student government association for the 1972-73 school year at Atlantic Christian College. He will assume his duties with a first hand knowledge of the workings of our student government gained from his year as vice president. In an interview with the Collegiate, Cayton recently discussed his plans for next year and his ideas about the role he should play in the SGA.

When asked whether or not he felt he could represent the majority of students, Cayton replied: "Yes sir I believe I can." He added that he intends to rely heavily on the SGA Executive Board for counsel and advice because "it is a broader representation of the student body than the president is."

On the question of whether or not as president, he will take steps to revive efforts to get a drinking bill approved by the Trustees, Cayton commented: "If the student body shows interest in such a bill again, a committee should be appointed by the SGA to work on it. That committee I would think would want to find out student, administration and parental reaction to such a bill."

When asked a similar question about women's visitation in men's dorms, Cayton gave a similar answer saying that he felt if interest was expressed, that a committee could best deal with it.

On the question of whether or not he has set or is going to set any goals for his administration Cayton replied: "Yes, I have set some goals and they include: initiating student action to raise funds for a new library which is badly needed. I also feel that the SGA should work with the Women's Interdormitory association and the Pan Hellenic council to seek changes in some of the girls regulations." He went on to add that he felt sororities should be given the prerogative of having off campus housing as fraternities now do. Cayton also felt that there is a dire need for better relations between ACC students and the city of Wilson and between the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) and Atlantic Christian College.

On the question of whether or not he felt the fact that he is a religion major was an important issue in his recent election, Cayton said: "The fact that I am a conservative religion major mattered to some students, but to the student body as a whole, I don't think it really mattered."

Cayton disclosed that his student coordinator for next year will be Margie Thorpe, a rising senior and an elementary education major. Heading up next years delegation to the North Carolina Student Legislature Cayton said, will be Robbie Steen.

In closing Cayton said that he hoped very much that "our negative points can become positive points and that those can become steps forward."

Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles brought his campaign for the democratic gubernatorial nomination to Atlantic Christian last Friday. In an impromptu visit to the campus, Bowles visited Hines Hall and the Hamlin Student Center meeting and talking with students. He stressed the main points of his campaign to the students and faculty he met. He said as Governor he will oppose any new or increased taxes of any kind, that he would fight for a LIMITED no-fault automobile insurance plan and that he would continue his efforts to get the drunken drivers off N.C. highways. Before leaving ACC Bowles said that he was really "impressed with the beauty of the campus and the friendliness of the students and faculty he met."

Sanford Begins Bid For Presidency

By JIM ABBOTT

Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford officially opened his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination recently in Washington, D. C.

The Duke University president said the party is short on leadership and the country is tired of so-called establishment Washington-based politicians.

"I have as good an opportunity as anyone now in the running,"

Bowles: Make It Tough On Pusher

WINSTON-SALEM — Democratic candidate for Governor Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles said here Wednesday that the professional drug pusher should be treated as a serious criminal.

In an address to the student body of Wake Forest University, Bowles said of the professional pusher, "He's not a user because he doesn't want to get hooked; he's the man with underworld connections, the wholesaler. He's involved in drugs only to make money. He's the one that I think our efforts should be directed toward. He's the one who should be jailed or driven from the state by laws that make it simply too hot for him to be comfortable. He's the target in any drug abuse legislation that I would recommend."

the 54-year-old Sanford told newsmen. He said the Democratic race is wide open.

Sanford expects to find an early base of national support among the young and throughout the South. Then, he said, his new approach to government should catch on across a broader constituency now tired of the politics and unkept promises of others.

While in Washington, Sanford received mild support from Mike Mansfield, the Senate majority leader, who said Sanford or Florida Gov. Reuben Askew could be a compromise candidate if none of the other contenders sew up the nomination.

Mansfield was quoted as saying Sanford would provide "a RICH SQUARE, N.C. — Howard Lee, Mayor of Chapel Hill, and candidate for Congress from the Second District, today said that tax reform must become an economic reality for the working men and women of America and not just a political rally cry for politicians.

In a speech to a group of supporters, Mayor Lee stated: "In 1971, one steel company had an income of over 150 million dollars, but paid no corporate taxes."

"Last year, 1,338 Americans who made over $50,000 paid no personal income taxes."

"Our tax system is progressive in name only." "We must change," Lee said, "a tax system that sometimes lets
