Tuition, room, and board will be increased by some ten percent next year as was learned from President Harold Doster and Business Manager Milton Adams. Although this figure is slightly higher than increases in the past, it still allows ACC to remain well below the average costs of similar church-related schools in North Carolina. When compared with 20 of these similar schools, Atlantic Christian remains below the average cost in the following approximate amounts: tuition, $550; room, $40; and board, $160. How does ACC manage to keep their costs substantially lower? See Editorial, page 2.

Doster Visits SGA

The Student Government Association welcomed a special guest to their Tuesday night meeting as Dr. Harold Doster made his first appearance at a regular SGA meeting. While the Board waited for enough members to arrive in order to have a quorum, Dr. Doster fielded questions from the Board.

After the quorum was finally achieved, the Board began to dig into their business. Dr. Doster spoke up several times during the meeting without even waiting to be yielded the floor; however, the Board felt that his enthusiasm made up for his inexperience and calmly ignored Parliamentary procedure.

The SGA handled many items of business as well as learning of the results of last week's Board of Trustees meeting. The members who were present took time to pat themselves on the back concerning their work towards the naming of Wenger Hall. They also passed a resolution praising the now defunct Special Constitution. The Board of Trustees will probably approve the Constitution in the very near future.

Eric Sellers, Elections Committee chairman, discussed the upcoming elections. He informed members that anyone who will be unable to vote in person in the elections near the end of this month will be able to vote by absentee ballot. Those persons who desire to do so must contact Sellers and return the ballots to him 24 hours before the elections begin.

Cindy McNeil once again brought with her a full agenda of business, as she raised several questions before the Board. One of these concerns the possibility of a practice wall at the tennis courts. McNeil and other interested students were told to take the request to the P.E. Department.

Candidates for the upcoming elections were reminded that there is a mandatory meeting on Wednesday, March 8. Exact time and location will be announced in that morning's Green Slate. Any candidate unable to attend must get in touch with Sellers before the meeting.

Trustee Meeting Productive

The Atlantic Christian College Board of Trustees, at its mid-winter meeting held here this week, took action to tentatively approve a record operating budget in excess of $5 million for the coming academic year, authorized an increase in tuition and fees, officially named a major residence hall, approved the appointment of a new dean of the college and nominated new members for election to the board.

The board tentatively approved an operating budget for the 1978-79 academic year in the amount of $5,325,940, an overall increase of some 8 percent over the current year. It also allows for modest salary increases for faculty and staff.

Dr. Harold C. Doster, president of the college, commented on the many benefits to be derived from the new budget. He outlined 12 specific areas in which the college plans to improve its overall program including the areas of academic, extracurricular activities, plant facilities and archives development.

Also approved was an increase in student tuition, room board and fees totaling an approximate average of $274 per year (two semesters). Tuition was increased $190, meals $40, room $30 (average), activity fee $10, and medical fee $4.

It was pointed out that with the increases, Atlantic Christian College charges would probably remain within the lower 25 percent bracket of similar private church-related institutions within the state.

The board officially named the college's newest major dormitory, the "Arthur D. Wenger Residence Hall," in honor of the late president of the college. Earlier known as the New Dormitory for Women, the six-story structure is located at Lee and Deans streets, across from Hilley Hall.

The board approved the appointment of Dr. F. Mark Davis of Minneapolis, Minn., as dean of the college. Presently associate dean and director of special programs at Augsburg College, he will assume his duties at Atlantic Christian at the beginning of the coming academic year.

In other action, the board approved the retirement of Dr. Russell D. Dement and Hugh B. Johnston Jr., at the conclusion of the current school year. It also accepted the resignation of Dr. Mary F. Stough, to become effective at the end of the current school year.

Eleven persons were placed in nomination for election to the ACC Board of Trustees by the Regional Assembly of the Christian Church in North Carolina meeting in Raleigh, April 14-16.

Nominated to succeed themselves for three-year terms on the board were C. Howard Andrews of Rocky Mount, T. Ed Brown of Wilson, S. M. Cozart of Wilson, W. B. Glenn of Greenville, Laurence A. Moyer of Maury, Bruce W. Riley of Wilson, W. Elmo Stanford of Greensboro, and Bowden G. Warren of Newton Grove.

J. Stuart Wake of Wilson, was nominated for a three-year term as a ministerial representative to the board to succeed Ralph G. Messick of Greenville. George T. Stronach III, of Wilson, has been nominated as alumni representative to the board to succeed Donald E. Stanley of Greensboro.

Charles F. Rouse of Raleigh, who has served as a member of the board since 1950, was named "trustee emeritus."

Campus Celebrities

Mrs. Pittman

The Freshman probably appreciate this lady the most. Eating meals in the college cafeteria that first semester away from home isn't quite the same as sitting down to a homecooked meal with your mother smiling and making certain that there are at least a couple of things on the table that you don't detest. Well maybe

Mrs. Nettie Pittman can't guarantee that there will always be something served which will meet your approval, but she does always have a smile on her face and a pleasant word for anyone who wants to talk.

Mrs. Pittman has worked in the cafeteria for ten years. Her job has brought her into contact with many students and chances are that she remembers the names of at least half of them. Although Mrs. Pittman's co-workers tease her about being unable to remember names, she does possess a remarkable memory which makes her a favorite of all those students who come into contact with the same people every day and remain nameless.

The secret of Mrs. Pittman's popularity with the students comes from her genuine interest in their welfare. Mrs. Pittman says that the thing which makes her job so enjoyable is talking with people. She has an open ear for those with problems, a smile
