Rec Room Destruction Reaches All-Time High

by Burroughs

Game Room - Hamlin Student Center - ACC. It is 12:00 p. m. (noon). "The Young and the Restless" has just begun, and the entire campus stops for thirty minutes to escape from the everyday pressures and heartaches of college life by watching someone else's trials and tribulations on the boob tube.

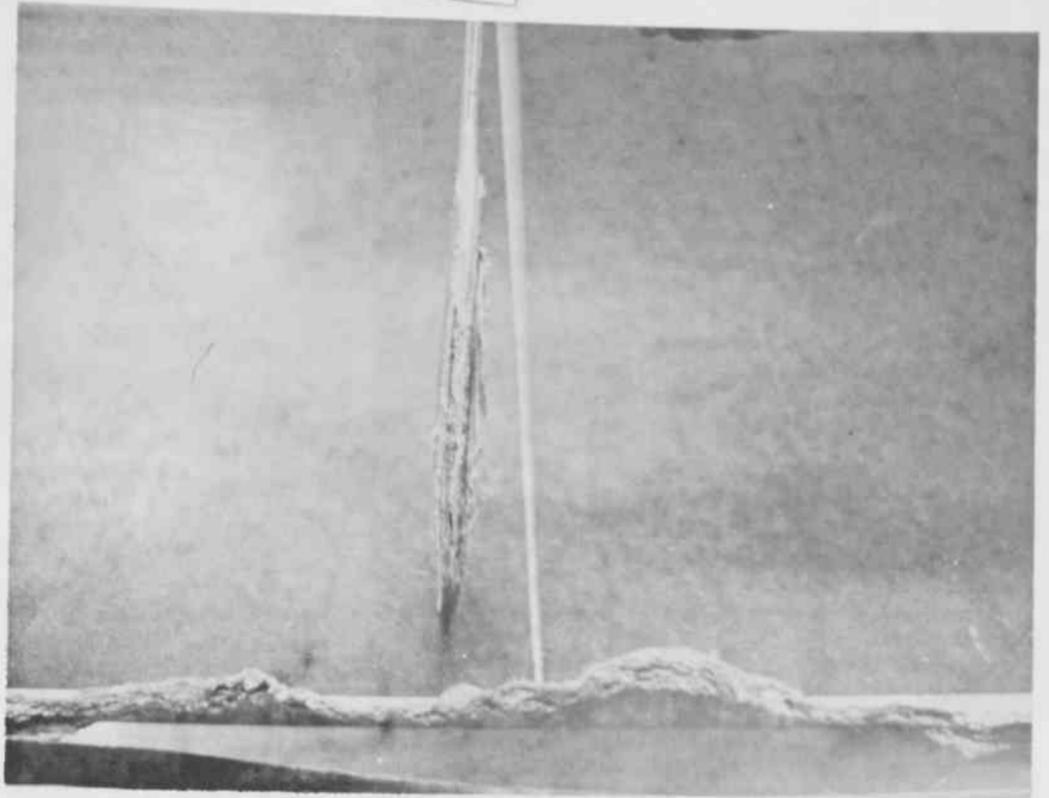

There's problems here though that seem to hinder the viewers of the episodic soap operas; that is, if they watch the stories in the game room in the Student Center. The soap opera audience must first prepare itself for the distortion of sound and color from the T. V. located in the room, which by the way, has been broken since the end of the last spring semester. Secondly, the audience must contend with the various noises coming from people, pinball machines, the fooseball table, the pool table, and the ping pong table. (The noise level, although varying somewhat, usually remains high.) In trying to combat these odd noises, a viewer just might turn up the sound level a decibel or two, thus increasing the overall volume. The result - well, for me it means a headache and the time to make my exit has arrived.

Unfortunately, the broken T. V. and the excessive noise level are not the only problems that must be dealt with. In talking with a desk worker of the Student Center, it was learned the another problem existed, the destruction of property in the center by the students. This destruction takes place in a variety of ways:

Item One - The Ping Pong table and paddles.

SGA Handles Regular Business

by Catherine Edwards

The SGA Senate met in the Hardy Alumni Hall on Oct. 25, 1979. Under the issue of old business, the Constitution and By-laws Committee approved the constitutions submitted by Delta Sigma Theta and the Math Club. Mr. Frazier reporting for the Grievance Committee commented that in meeting with Dean Joyner, the $15 parking fee was justified. And a request that no further action on the matter was accepted. The existence of a low wire at Hackney Hall was to be investigated. Mr. Frazier also introduced a resolution (RIIS) concerning exam week in Spring, 1980. May 7, 1980 was clarified to be a reading day and the resolution was accepted by a voice vote.

Mr. Webb reported that he had available to the Senate the treasurer's report from the following organizations: Classes of

'81 and '82, Pine Knot. Publicity committee, and the Collegiate. Mr. CLyburn yielded the floor to Mr. J. Fred Pearce. Mr. Pearce expressed his concern for the unconstitutionality of charge accounts for the Pine Knot and the Collegiate. Mr. Pearce pointed out that these publications are not able to purchase items from the bookstore. Mr. Pearce also stated that, at times it would be less expensive to deal with the college bookstore. An amendment concerning this issue was to be written for the next Senate Meeting.

The SGA met again on November 8, 1979. Ms. Richey reported that the Constitution and By-Laws had reviewed the by-laws of the Constitution and recommended that a separate committee be formed to rewrite said by-laws. After a discussion led by Mr. Frazier the by-laws were sent back to the committee for review by voice vote. At the time of this meeting three more SGA funded organizations had responded to the budget report requests. Those organizations that responded are the Senior Class, Cabinet, and Campus Christian Organization. The Entertainment and Student Center Committee have not as yet responded.

Under new business Mr. Murphy informed the Senate by memorandum that Terry Franks had been dismissed as Chairperson of the Entertainment
