This is a Centennial Year Celebration.

Bennett Alumnae Hold "Miss Centinette Ball"

The Greensboro Chapter of the Bennett College Alumnae Association sponsored a "Miss Centinette Ball" on Saturday night, March 31 in the Ida H. Goode Gymnasium at 8 p.m. The event was one of several fund raising events planned by the chapter this year. Proceeds go to the Bennett College Scholarship Fund.

This affair, a special Centennial program, marked the presentation of seven young ladies who represent second or third generations of families who attended Bennett College, a predominantly black institution for women.

Leading the contestants into the arena was seven-year old Kay Eloise Miller, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Miller, Jr.

The contestants were Deborah A. Browning, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zack Browning; Demetria Chavis, the daughter of Mrs. Luvenia Chavis; Parris A. Griffin, the daughter of Mrs. Annette Griffin; Zephia Hinnant, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hinnant; Cheryl Hooker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coley Hooker, Jr.; Olga Morgan, the niece of Miss Lola McAdoo; and Miss Vanessa Snipes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Snipes.

Music was provided by the Electric Express. Demetria Chavis was crowned by Dr. Miller for raising the most money.

Summer Intern Program

The department of political science at UNC-G in conjunction with five other local colleges and the city of Greensboro is sponsoring a Summer Internship Program. The purpose of the program is to permit students to learn first hand about the realities of government and politics in the metropolis. Some interns will work full-time for administrators of governmental units serving Greensboro at city, county and regional levels. Others will work with leaders of private agencies and community organizations involved in community affairs. Each intern will be guided by a job supervisor and a faculty advisor.

According to Professor John Bing of our faculty, "This program is the best opportunity available for our students to learn about local government through participation in the activities of local government. This has been available to students in Greensboro and it will hopefully continue. The Summer Internship Program is a truly exciting break through in learning opportunities for Bennett students.

POET'S CORNER

"A Taste of Blackness"

—Vernadette Alexander

A Taste of Blackness

I was given a taste of Blackness, and found it to be the sweetest morsel I had ever savored in my mouth. It was vague at first I was reluctant I had to chew to get it's bitter sweet essence it melted, I swallowed it's beauty into me. It coated my throat and I was able to speak beautiful words it coated my stomach and my slain lowled Black. It rushed through to my brain and I . . . thought

Sharing everything you've got with your brothers and sisters in need makes you alright black indeed.

Blessing

God bless Martin and
God bless Wallace

But God
If you can't bless them both
Bless Martin
We'll understand

I Died for Peace

My head is aching I've been fighting many years, my mind is paralyzed. My eyes are blurred; I've been looking out too long. My legs are limp; I've been running rugged runs and climbing mountain tops. My heart has stopped; they thought I needed a rest.

"Seclusion"

In my silent room at night, alone in thought, the lamp above my head, the shining light upon the pages, turning one by one; in my loneliness, I found a friend who made me laugh, and strong enough to make me live; But why are we dying to live when we're just living to die?

"Drums of Freedom"

Some of us will die, but the drums will beat. We may even loose, but the drums will beat. They will beat loud! and strong! on and on for we shall get what we want, and the drums, will beat on and on —

Right on!
