Living Learning Centers sponsor variety of programs

By Ronda Stingley
Banner Reporter

Are you having trouble managing your money? Can you manage your time effectively?

If you answered "yes" to any of the questions above, you might want to check the programs offered each month in the Living Learning centers. Each dorm hosts a minimum of four programs a semester.

"We base our programs on the needs of the students in the Living Learning centers," said Pia Holland, a sophomore business administration major from Richmond and resident assistant in Jones Hall.

Many programs focus on issues such as health awareness, date rape, and time management.

"However, many residents don't come when programs are offered," says Bianca Williams, senior mass communications major from Washington, D.C. and resident assistant in Pfeiffer Hall.

"Announcements are made and flyers are posted, but there still seems to be a low attendance rate," Williams said.

On the average, 40 students attend the programs which are normally weeknights at 7 p.m.

"A lot can be gained from attending dorm programs," said Rian Roberts, freshman from Harrisburg, Pa. "Since I've been at Bennett, I've attended most of the dorm programs and I've gotten to know more people."
