Bennett Belles have the unique opportunity to be among the first students to work and enjoy the pristine setting of Project Vote Smart's Great Divide Ranch. Undergraduates and graduates from all majors will join students from United States and foreign universities and members from across the country at Project Vote Smart's new headquarters on the Continental Divide in Montana.

A grant from the Hearst Foundation and donations from more than 50,000 members provides support for Bennett students who commit to a minimum of 10 weeks of the most spectacular outdoor with Project Vote Smart.

This support ranges from free room and board or scholarships up to $1450 during the 10-week internship.

Interns perform more than ninety percent of the work at the Project. Project responsibilities include interviewing more than 12,000 presidential, congressional, gubernatorial and legislative candidates and checking their backgrounds and job performances, researching issues on the Vote Smart Web site, compiling and editing publications, and working with political reporters and editors covering federal and state campaigns.

When students are not researching politics, they have the opportunity to ski, hike, fish and enjoy one settings in the country.

Students and recent graduates with majors in political science, communications, journalism and computer science are particularly encouraged to apply, although interns from all backgrounds and majors are accepted. Additional scholarship support is also available for students interested in interning during spring, fall, and winter sessions. Minority students are eligible for additional scholarship support.

Students apply to work a 10week period that fits into their schedules during the year. There are no application deadlines but there are limited positions available
