

Cooperation

(By General Superintendent)

From Washington down to the smallest mill in the country, the watch-word now seems to be "Cooperation." Our President pleads for it in his informal broadcasts over the radio, his subordinates plead for it in the daily hearings now taking place in our national capital, and factory and mill management must have it from those with whom they deal.

In our company we have prided ourselves for years on a group of officials who work with each other, on a group of foremen who do the same thing, and on employees in general who co-operate to the fullest extent with their foremen in their work. Just as a house divided against itself cannot stand, so it is in the case of any business or manufacturing organization. Just so long as we work together with the common aim of giving the best that is in us, we will not have it said of us that ours is not the efficient organization it is known to be.

Those of us in the mill, here and in Winston-Salem, must do our very best in giving whole-hearted support to the policies of the company for which we work. When a job is laid out for us to do, we must cooperate with our foremen in turning out the best work we know how to do. We must be willing to carry our share of the load, at all times and under all circumstances, in order that our company may continue to hold its place in a competitive field. We must not only do our

SHOWS POWER IN CHECKER CONTEST

Cola Fulp Goes Through Four Eliminations In State Meet

Mr. Cortez Lowery, Mr. C. M. Hickerson and Mr. Cola Fulp, of Elkin, attended the State Checker Tournament July 4th and 5th at Albemarle. All three joined the North Carolina Checker Association. They also competed for the championship of the state. However, Mr. Lowery and Mr. Hickerson were eliminated in the first round; they showed great ability in moving their men. Young Fulp, who is also employed by the Chatham Manufacturing Co., showed great skill in playing the game of checkers. Fulp who is only 18 years of age went through four eliminations. Had Fulp gone through two more eliminations he would have come out state champion. Mr. C. M. Hickerson, who is coaching young Fulp, says that Fulp will come out state champion next year if he keeps improving in the future the way he has in the last year.

work quickly, but we must do it well, in order that the quality of our product may not suffer.

Aside from the cooperation that we must give those above us, the various departments of the mills are so dependent upon each other, due to the closely associated processes of manufacture, that each department must make an effort to understand the problems of the other, and do its

(Continued on Page Two)

SALES FORCE SAYS WELCOME

New York Office Sends Congratulations to Chatham Blanketeer

Welcome and success to The Blanketeer. It is a grand idea and will do a great deal to create a unity of purpose and interest in our fine organization.

From time to time we will supply news items which we hope will be of interest. Some of you, no doubt, have wondered about where Chatham blankets go and how they are sold. If you have any questions we will be glad to answer them.

Jim Young: Fred, who invented work?"

Fred Neaves: "You should worry, you'll never infringe on his patent."

Contest For Subscriptions Is Continued

Due to the fact that so many are interested in our subscription contest, we are extending the time for one more month, so that everybody will be reached. The price will be twenty-five cents per year, for people in the Mill and fifty cents for out-of-town subscriptions. Come on, girls, let's win the race.

Initiative

(By Supt. Winston Mill)

I think one of the finest thoughts that ever came from the mind of a brilliant man was expressed by Elbert Hubbard when he wrote: "The world bestows its big prizes, both in money and honors, for but one thing, and that is INITIATIVE." What is Initiative? I'll tell you: It is doing the right thing without being told, but next to doing the right thing without being told is to do it when you are told once.

You will note that this brilliant man quickly divides the world into three very distinct classes. Those who can do the right thing without being told. Those who have to be told only once and those who have to be told more than once.

The successes of life we usually find in the first two classes. I do not mean that a successful man is one that has as much money as he wants, drives a high priced automobile and spends his winters in Florida—I mean that a successful man is one that has a job and usually a good one, has the confidence and respect of his employers and is well thought of in the community in which he lives.

Initiative is something that is not born in every one, but I firmly believe that with a proper amount of energy or aptitude every one can develop into either the first or second class and become a success in his particular

(Continued on Page Two)