

ELKIN MILL

Weaving Department

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stinson, Anvile Newman, Mrs. Ann Swaim, Messrs Jack and Dock Osborne spent the week-end of October 7 visiting friends in Lynchburg, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Hall were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bulin Saturday, October 14.

Mr. and Mrs. John Evans announce the birth of a son, John Wesley, II, October 5th.

Mr. and Mrs. David Day and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Edd Myers in Greensboro, October 14. While there they attended the circus.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Masten and daughter, Wilma, were the guests of Miss Laura Masten October 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Pardue had as their guests this week-end Mrs. Mattie Shore and Miss Lexie Marion.

Mr. and Mrs. Billie Tucker spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Gilliam.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Emerson spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rumble, Oct. 14.

Mr. Roy Newman and Miss Gladys Chappell, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stinson, motor-ed to Independence, Speedwell and Wytheville, Va., Oct. 15.

Among those attending the circus in Winston-Salem recently were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Freeman, Miss Madeline Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Free Pardue and daughter, Miss Violet.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Young and Miss Ruth Carter spent the week-end in Asheville and Lake Junaluska.

Misses Madeline Carter, Mae Irvin, Sue Birch and Messrs. Jim Greenwood, Odell Palmer and Roy Hampton spent the week-end of October 21st in King, N. C., visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holcomb and daughter, Pansy, and Mrs. Mont Swaim spent Sunday in Pinehurst where they visited Mrs. Swaim's husband, who is in the hospital there. We are glad to learn that Mr. Swaim is improving and will soon be able to return home.

Wool Department

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Buellin, a son, October 14th.

Among those in this department who attended the fair in Winston-Salem were: Mr. and Mrs. James Burcham and son, Russel, Miss Pauline Masten, Charlie Hanes and Herman Laffoon.

Misses Roette Cockerham and Leona Darnell visited in Statesville Sunday.

Mr. Sam Brannon spent the week-end of October 15th in Charlotte visiting relatives.

Miss Pauline Masten with a party of friends spent Sunday in Chapel Hill visiting her sister, Mrs. R. D. Roscoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hemric, of Thurmond visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Hemric Sunday.

Among the most recent shoppers in Winston-Salem were Mr. and Mrs. James Burcham; Misses Ruth Callins and Pauline Masten and David Masten, Jr.

Mr. Walter Minnish reports that he spent Saturday afternoon in town. He attended the picture show and also saw one train, several wagons and a few automobiles.

It has been reported that Mr. Charlie Hanes makes a very attractive red-head. We wonder if he is trying to impersonate Clara Bow.

Rug Department

Among those in this department spending Saturday in Winston-Salem shopping, were Mary Brown, Pauline Morrison, Lewyer Pennel and Council Carter.

Mr. Paul Price attended a football game in Greensboro Oct. 21. Mr. Lewyer Pennel will spend this week-end in Asheville visiting friends.

Mrs. Bob Eidson who has been a patient at the Trivette Hospital has recovered sufficiently to be removed to the home of her parents near Harmony, her friends will be glad to learn.

Mr. John Kelley, of Taylorsville has recently been added to this department.

Spinning And Carding

Miss Ruth Carter spent last week-end in Asheville.

Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Eury and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Patten, of Burlington were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Key Sunday, Oct. 22nd.

Miss Pauline Morrison and Mr. Council Carter spent Saturday in Winston-Salem. We suppose they went shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Wiles announce the birth of a daughter, Friday, October 20th.

Mrs. Macie Carter and Mrs. W. C. Key spent Saturday in Statesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bryant, of Roaring River, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Gambill over the week-end.

Among those from this department attending the Fair at Winston-Salem were: Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Key, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Davis, Ruth Carter, Dorothy Penfield, Pauline Morrison, Council Carter and Jimmy Young.

Miss Ohna Bates, mill nurse, went to Statesville over the week-end of October 21st where she nursed Billy Price at the Davis Hospital.

Miss Maggie Harris, of Axton, Virginia is spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Austin.

Waverly Hemric, son of Mr. Luther Hemric, continues to be in a serious condition at his home in Jonesville, friends will be sorry to learn.

Shop And Dye House

Mr. and Mrs. Cortez Lowery visited relatives at Keystone, Va., over the week-end of Oct. 15.

Mr. L. G. Henderson attended a revival at Center church this week.

Mr. F. S. Gray is the champion hunter in this department. While hunting recently in Wilkes county he caught a twelve-pound 'possum. We hope he will invite his friends to help eat the next one he catches.

Mr. Benson, of Greenville, S. C., has been recently added to this department as Master Mechanic.

Didn't Know

Mr. Chatham

(Continued From Page One)

my estimate, than those who carry on his business continue to honor his opinions in important matters of policy. It proves a staunch belief in his decisions, which has lasted through the years. Even the finest and most modern machinery is soon outdated, up-to-the-minute processes are discarded in favor of those more suited to changed conditions, but the essential rules of a progressive business go on forever. It seems that Mr. Chatham, during his active business life, laid down a set of rules for all of us to follow which are always in the forefront of our daily routine.

Our company is making steady progress, otherwise it could not survive the pace of modern competition, and a great many changes have come about within the years since Mr. Chatham's death, but the very foundation, the bed rock, is exactly as he made it. If I were asked to mention the one outstanding influence left by Mr. Chatham in this company, I should unhesitatingly advance my belief that it is the relation between those who operate the machines and carry on the detail work and those who govern the policies by which we earn our daily bread. No foreman or official is ever too busy to discuss the problems of a day's work with one of his men. In a great many cases this is carried even further, as an official attempts to help an employee with some of his problems outside his work.

Something of Mr. Chatham's nature has survived in the un-failing courtesy with which strangers and visitors to the mill are treated. Any number of men who visit mill after mill in North Carolina, have told me that they are treated with more courtesy, and made to feel more welcome at the offices of the Chatham Manufacturing Co. than at any other plant they visit.

All this sort of thing makes for good will, as these visitors take away from our mills either one of two impressions, and we are fortunate that in our case they leave us with nothing but praise for our company to the next man they meet.

Mr. Chatham's influence is felt to-day as it will be felt ten years from to-day. If it were not for our own good, it could not stand the test of time.

Was Active In Church

(Continued From Page One)

home a delightful place to visit, will be attested to by his neighbors and hosts of friends.

He was faithful to his church and Sunday school, serving in perhaps every capacity in both. At one time he served as secretary of the Sunday school, then for many years as teacher of a large class of men, and if no other work called him, on hand as a member of the school. He was during his entire adult life, a member of the board of stewards of his church, generally an officer of the board and always with wise words of guidance. He was unexcelled as a host in church meetings and conferences giving freely of his time and means towards making such meetings successful.

In a more unusual way his Christian character was shown by his love for his fellow man. No human being was too insignificant to get his time and sympathy. None too unworthy to get help and good advice. Although imposed on frequently he had no ill feeling, having faith enough in humanity to believe that no kindness is wasted.

To his friends, sympathy, advice and help was given generously and ungrudgingly. He loved to help people and by his sympathy, understanding heart and willingness was permitted to be a man of great good to his generation.

She: "Did you tell your father over the phone we were engaged?"

He: "Yes."

She: "What did he reply?"

He: "I'm not sure whether he replied or whether the line was struck by lightning."