

MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Earl Holbrook Pinned Beneath Car As Result of Collision Near New Bridge

As the result of an automobile collision which occurred about 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the intersection of Market street and Gwyn Avenue, Earl Holbrook, about 40, of Jonesville, received an injury from which he died at 11:20 a. m. at Hugh Chatham Memorial hospital.

Following the accident, Morgan Ledbetter, of Yadkin county, driver of the car in which Holbrook was riding, and J. L. Cothren, driver of the other car involved in the accident, were placed under $1,000 bond each to await a hearing December 14 before Magistrate J. L. Hall on charges of manslaughter.

Bruce Renegar, an occupant of the car in which Holbrook was a passenger, received a bad cut about the head, but was dismissed from the local hospital following medical attention. Ledbetter and Miles Shore, another occupant of the car, were uninjured with the exception of minor facial cuts. Cothren was also uninjured.

The accident occurred at the north end of the Hugh Chatham bridge, the right end of the bumper of Mr. Cothren's car striking the left rear wheel of the T model Ford touring car which Ledbetter was driving, causing it to skid completely around where it turned over on the left side, pinning Holbrook, who was in the rear seat, beneath it.

Immediately following the accident, the injured man was placed in a car driven by Graham Hanes, who, aided by Paul Price and L. C. Murray, rushed him to the hospital.

An examination at the hospital disclosed a hole in Holbrook's skull which was described as being about half the size of a baseball, and through which his brains were visible.

Although given no chance of life by medical attendants at the hospital, the dying man lingered on until 11:20, when he passed away without regaining consciousness.

Holbrook was the father of nine children, the youngest being only a few weeks old. In addition to the children, he is survived by his wife and two brothers and one sister, John and Sam Holbrook, and Mrs. Clay Crouse, all of High Point.

Speaks On "Homespuns"

Carl Goerch, Editor of The State, Tells of Chatham Fabric Over Radio; Entire Output In Hands of Baltimore Concern; Hundreds of Pleased Customers

Thursday night, November 8th, at 7:45 p. m., Mr. Carl Goerch, editor of "The State", a magazine published at Raleigh, spoke of the Chatham "Homespuns."

Mr. Goerch brought out the following points: After the Civil War rugged homespuns made by Chatham were worn throughout the south. Benefiting from the experience and research of over a half a century which have made Chatham blankets pre-eminent throughout the country, Chatham Homespuns have been recreated, and by test are now manufactured into the best wearing suits that can be made.

L. Greif & Bro., Inc., Baltimore, Md., has been assigned the entire output of Chatham Homespuns.

In their hands, long experienced in fashion correct tailoring, this rough fabric has been converted into suits of distinctive character, retailing at amazingly popular prices.

Thousands of these suits have already been sold throughout America. Greif dealers everywhere have given us most enthusiastic reports of their customer's satisfaction. We are proud to offer Chatham Homespuns in Greif tailoring and unqualifiedly guarantee every yard of this fabric.

Mr. Goerch also brought out the large number of merchants in North Carolina offering to their customers Chatham Homespuns and of their pleased customers who have worn the Chatham Homespuns.

Beautifying Grounds At Local Hospital

An extensive beautification program of the grounds at Hugh Chatham Memorial Hospital is being conducted by the Woman's Auxiliary of the hospital. A number of trees have been donated by Ruohs Pyron and several shrubs by Paul Gwyn. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Lindhurst, who are supervising the work, have given a number of tulip bulbs from their gardens. Private subscriptions have been solicited, the proceeds of which have been used for the purchase of boxwoods and other shrubs for the work.

ESTELLE POWERS WINS IN CONTEST

Miss Estelle Powers, first president of the Lucy Hanes Chatham Club of Elkin, won forty dollars in a recent contest put on by the Huntly-Hill-Stockton Company, of Winston-Salem. Her many friends both in the Winston and Elkin plants will be glad to learn of her good luck.

Pride is one of the seven deadly sins; but it cannot be the pride of a mother in her children, for that is a compound of two cardinal virtues—faith and hope.—Dickins.

Funeral Services Are Held For J. C. Talley

Funeral services were held for James Cleveland Talley, 42, local barber of Elkin, who passed away Tuesday night, Nov. 6th, while sleeping alone in a second floor room over the Dixie Barber Shop, with which he was associated, and whose lifeless body was discovered by a shine boy many hours after life had passed, were conducted at 11 o'clock Friday morning from the First Baptist church, with Rev. Eph Whisenhunt, Rev. J. L. Powers and Rev. J. C. Castevens in charge.

The general opinion is that Mr. Talley smothered to death as he lay soundly sleeping, while fully clothed, with his face buried deep in a soft pillow. He had on a tight-fitting collar, such as he always wore and this served to interfere with his blood circulation. He was seen about nine o'clock on Tuesday night when a fellow barber went to his room to see if all was well, and found him, as he thought, sleeping soundly. When he failed to appear at work on Wednesday morning the shine boy was sent to see if he was still upstairs and found his lifeless form.

The deceased was an artist in his trade, and was highly respected and trustworthy. He had

CHATHAM BEATS CCC BASKETEERS

Crater Leads Scoring To Aid In 61 to 18 Tally Over Opponents At North Wilkesboro

The Chatham Blanketeers after being defeated on last Friday in their first practice game by the Winston All-Stars 28 to 22 and minus their two stars Crater and Maxwell, went into the win column last night by defeating the CCC boys at North Wilkesboro by the score of 61 to 18.

Crater led the scoring with 16 points and the entire team played good ball and will play on even terms with the best of teams.

Plans are under way to sell season tickets for uniforms and Coach Hambright will announce the schedule in the next issue of the Blanketeer and all college teams are to be scheduled away and at home, and your support is needed to have a winning team. Tickets are being sold by Jimmie Young at five dollars for two boxing bouts and all basket ball games, which will number around thirty.
