

CLUB SPONSORS FINE BANQUET

Lucy Hanes Chatham Club Stages Annual Employer-Employee Banquet; Is Enjoyed

The Lucy Hanes Chatham Club of Chatham Manufacturing Company, sponsored a delightful banquet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Reynolds Cafeteria, this being the annual employer-employee banquet, celebrating the fifth anniversary of the club, which was organized March 28, 1930, by Miss Lorena Kelley, of Centenary Church, assisted by Miss Claudia Austin.

Colorful balloons adorned the private dining room, these attached to the ceiling, billowed in festive manner above the long tables. The table for the speakers and officials of the club had for its central decoration a large bowl holding beautiful pink roses, gypsophilia and lavender stock. This was flanked by four pink candles on each side. At the place of each guest was an attractive club booklet with the name of the guest, used as place cards.

This booklet is dedicated to Mrs. Lucy Hanes Chatham, as follows: "To Mrs. Lucy Hanes Chatham, as an expression of our love and gratitude to one who, for six years has been an inspiring example to the girls of Chatham Manufacturing Company, who has shown interest in their every undertaking, who always extended a hand of help and co-operation and who has stimulated animated desires to make real the ideals of life."

The two long tables forming an open square effect were adorned with long graceful sprays of asparagus vine down the length of the tables. In the center of each was a deep crystal bowl holding pink roses, gypsophilia and lavender stock. From this central adornment were vari-colored candles extending down the length of the tables. A four-course dinner was served.

An interesting program was presented as follows, with Mrs. Madie Austin Early, as toastmistress; Invocation, Dr. G. Ray Jordan; selection of Scotch airs, Ralph Harris Orchestra; opening remarks by the president of the club, Mrs. Maude Austin Early; piano solo, Aline Shamel; welcome, Levanda Hanks; response and toasts by members; solo, song and dance, Barbara Ann Benson; reading, Jack Smith; miscellaneous bits of interest; piano solo.

(Continued on Page Two)

The Old Shepherd and Jane

Pictured above are The Old Shepherd and Jane, who six times weekly are heard over station WBT on the Chatham Manufacturing company program. According to "The Old Shepherd," in real life Clair H. Shadwell, he found Jane while exploring a flower show. "Locking down into the soft velvety petals of a red rose, her beaming face gleamed forth—and she's been a thorn in my side ever since," he says. Jane found him when he was trying to unwind the silvery thread of the Yadkin river.

L. H. C. BANQUET IS STAGED 28TH

Event Is Sponsored By Elkin Club In Banquet Room of Hotel Elkin; 81 Present

Thursday night, May 28th in the banquet room of the Hotel Elkin, the Lucy Hanes Chatham Clubs sponsored one of the best and most attractive Employer-Employee Banquets ever given in the history of the clubs. Eighty-one guests enjoyed this occasion.

The banquet hall was attractively decorated with a color motif of blue and white. The decorations and program was centered around the idea of a ship. The overhead decorations were of blue and white streamers depicting that of a dining room of a beautiful ship. On the wall back of the speaker's table was a life saver and anchor, with the words, S.

S. Chatham printed on it. The tables had been arranged in U shape, with the blue streamers attractively arranged on the white cloth. Beautiful roses, snapdragons, sweetpeas, larkspur and ragged robins arranged in lovely cutglass bowls, resting on lovely mirror plaques, white tapers tied with blue ribbons were placed at intervals on the tables. Place cards and programs were dainty handmade ships, with S. S. Chatham written on the side of the ships.

Mrs. Kathryn Brannon, president of L. H. C. No. 1, acted as toastmistress. Rev. J. L. Powers gave the invocation. The welcome address was made by Mrs. Vena Darnell, president of the L. H. C. Club No. 2. Mr. Thurmond Chatham, president of the company, responded. Telling in an interesting manner about a sea-going trip that he made one time. Miss

(Continued on Page Two)

TEAM RECEIVES APPLICATION

May Get Bid to National Baseball Tournament To Be Held In Wichita, Kan., Aug. 14 to 16

Hoyt Hambricht, manager of the Chatham Blanketeers received an application from the National Baseball Tournament to be held in Wichita, Kansas, August 14th to 26th.

Only 32 of the outstanding semi-pro Clubs of the United States are to be represented and the Blanketeers are practically sure to receive a bid to represent the Carolinas in this year's event.

The winner of the Tournament will receive a huge trophy, $5,000 in cash, 18 gold wrist watches and transportation mileage.

Second place team receives a trophy, 5 per cent of gross gate receipts and mileage transportation.

Last year's second place team received $2,800. Third place receives 3 per cent gross gate and mileage. Last year's third place received $1,500.

Individual awards are 1—Most valuable player. 2—Leading hitter. 3—Best dressed club. 4—Team sportsmanship. 5—Most spectacular play. 6—Leading pitcher. These winners will receive handsome individual trophies.

The letter also stated that due to the winning of the Carolina Championship last year, and the remarkable record thus far this season that the Blanketeers would more than likely receive the bid, but would not be published until July 15th, at which time all 32 clubs will receive their bids.

Blanketeers Have Made Fine Record

The Chatham Blanketeers, 1935-semi-pro champions of the Carolinas ran their string of victories to 30 yesterday by defeating Lexington of the Carolina League 17-9. The Blanketeers have lost 5 games thus far.

The Blanketeers have one of the best semi-pro clubs in the Carolinas and in the games on the road are played before overflow crowds. While the games on the home diamond have not been supported as they should have been.

Next week's schedule includes games with Lexington here Tuesday, Unique of Winston, Wednesday and Coen-Cubs of Rockingham here Saturday. All games during the week are played at 4 p. m. and on Saturdays at 3:30 p. m.