Early Vacations Are Fun If You Have The Right Clothes, Here's How

The "two weeks in August" vacation of prewar years is part of the misty past and the bright future. Today's working girl takes her week or two of well-earned rest whenever and wherever she can. It depends on so many things—when she can be spared from the job she's doing, the whereabouts of her favorite serviceman, the demands of her down-to-the-bone budget. But she has learned to be flexible about her fun, and if it's an early vacation this year, she's ready for it.

She's ready, if she's the smart girl we think she is, because she has planned ahead and made many of the dazzle clothes she will wear. Her vacation wardrobe includes several of the smart, new sun dresses—those bare top beauties which are so comfortable, so flattering and so easy to make. In splashy cotton print or plaid, they are casual—in pastel rayon or sheer wool, they are exciting afternoon and evening styles. A cape, tied-on bolero or jacket in a matching or contrasting color turns the bare top into a double duty costume.

becoming suit is the backbone of any vacation wardrobe. Tailored and trim, or softly feminine, it's tops for travel and cool days. It is dressed up or down to fit the mood and occasion. Many a dollar can be saved on accessories by a set of willing fingers that can sew, knit or crochet. The girl who prepares by making frilly collars and blouses, tailored dickeys and sweaters, practically eliminates wardrobe worries.

A word about the wise vacationer who spends her vacation in her own back yard. She can have a full measure of fun if she plans her days wisely. She should have a pair of sturdy overalls or slacks, with eye appeal, of course—some snappy sunsuits, perhaps with a Mexican accent—and a couple of smooth date dresses with the new side draped effect and cool-as-a-cucumber cap sleeves. These should take care of such activities as gardening, bicycling, tennis, reading and lounging, dining and dancing.

"When you asked her to dance did she accept quickly?"
"Sure, she was on my feet in an instant."

Your Guide To Daily Living

From Washington Bureau

CHEESE—There will be more cheese for civilians in May and June than any time since last July. The government set-aside is being increased only moderately.

MEAT — There will be more meats in the butcher shops in the next few months. Orders for war uses have been cut. But housewives are warned not to expect the comparative abundance to last. The new cut in point values is temporary.

CANNED VEGETABLES — O. P. A.'s point value reductions, making many vegetables point free, are a bargain sale to clear storage for the new pack. Supplies will be plentiful, but not for long.

KITCHEN FATS — Despite the recent change in rationing, housewives will continue to be paid two red points and four cents for each pound of kitchen fat turned in.

FUEL OIL—O. P. A. said fuel rations for the 1944-45 heating season will be the same generally as in the 1943-44 season. If supplies increase, O. P. A. said, rations will be increased by raising the unit value of consumers' coupons.

TYPEWRITERS — Rationing restrictions were removed on new and used typewriters in the hands of dealers. Restrictions on sale of these newly produced machines continue in force.

CELLOPHANE FOR CANS — Evaporated milk cans, after the war, may join the parade of "wrapped in cellophane" products. The can will wear special cellophane "caps" designed to protect the milk for babies by insuring a sterile condition when opened.

COFFEE CAKE—The Navy is testing a new kind of "coffee cake" that isn't a cake at all. It's just real coffee, freshly roasted and compressed into a square the size of a yeast cake. One "cake" will make two cups of coffee.
