

First Ecusta Baby To Receive $25 Savings Bond

CONTEST RULES ARE ANNOUNCED IN THIS ISSUE

Mother Or Father Must Be Regular Employees In Companies Here

Continuing the practice of greeting the first baby of each year with a nice gift, Ecusta will award a $25.00 savings bond to the first "little bundle from heaven" delivered to an Ecusta family in 1947.

On page thirteen of this issue the rules of the contest are listed. It is stated that either the mother or the father or both must be a regular employee of our companies, working in the plant here.

All entries must be submitted on or before January 15th., accompanied by a certificate of the attending physician.

The entries must also give the name of parents, day and hour of birth, baby's name and weight.

The winner will be announced in the January issue of The Echo.

MANY ATTENDED

"Who's there?" demanded the woman in response to the knock on her apartment door. "It's Officer Kelly, ma'am." "Well, what do you want," she responded in a tone too cordial voice. "It's about your husband," yelled the cop. "A big steam roller just ran over him." "Well, don't just stand there gabbin'," ordered the widow. "Slide him in under the door."

Large Crowd Enjoying Bingo Party On December 6

Array Of Many Fine Prizes Were Given Away

In the top photo can be seen a cross-section of the large crowd which attended the bingo party in the cafeteria on Friday evening, December 6. It is estimated that more than 400 employees and their husbands and wives were present, with nearly one-fourth of them winning fine prizes. In the lower photo can be seen hams, candy, toiletries, cigarettes, bacon, lard, silk stockings, and other items which were awarded to the lucky winners.

A sign on the wall of a famous restaurant proclaims, "We make every kind of sandwich in the world. Just ask for it."

One night a wise guy demanded a whale sandwich. Temporarily confused, the waiter said he'd have to go speak to the boss about the request. After a bit, the waiter came back and reported, "The boss says he'll be damned if he'll cut up a whale just for one sandwich."

Girl: "Do you have any green lipstick?"
Druggist: "Green lipstick!"
Girl: "Yes, a railroad man is going to call on me tonight."

after the holidays and that there should not be any unnecessary gatherings of children.

In further carrying out the recommendations of the board, Ecusta cancelled its regular movie for this week Thursday and for next week Thursday, December 26th. If by January 2nd, conditions warrant, the regular Thursday movies will be resumed. Notices will be posted announcing the date of the next movie.

All arrangements had been completed for one of the biggest Children's Christmas Parties in the history of Ecusta this year with a special program of children's Christmas movies in the cafeteria and with Santa Claus (himself) here in person again with his many helpers to give more than 2,000 special boxes of goodies to all the kiddies.

An Englishman, a Welchman, and a Scot were at the local pub. There were three flies buzzing around, and one happened to make a landing in each drink. The Englishman took a spoon and removed the fly from his drink. The Welshman dipped his hand in his drink, removed his fly and flipped it across the room. The Scot carefully lifted his fly—and wrung it out.
