Pulp Mill News

Men enjoying vacations recently were Monroe Collins, Robert Foster, Harold Orr, James Waldrop, Ralph Morris and Gordon Hollingsworth.

Bill Bangs and Wade Scroggs were two of the lucky men to see the Carolina-Georgia football game.

Reports are that Sam Passmore, who has been ill, is improving. Best wishes for a speedy recovery, Sam."

The reason "Slim" Bullock is so happy lately is that he just recently became the proud father of a daughter, born Sunday, October 3rd. Congratulations, Slim.

We're sorry to hear of Clyde Galloway's mishap in burning his hands when his oil heater exploded, but his quick action at the time, in spite of the injury to himself, possibly prevented a big fire and property loss.

Refining Room News

Jack Wilber, Fred Wallen and Roy Fisher took in the North Carolina-Georgia football game at Athens, Georgia, and returned home well pleased with the showing the Tar Heels made. They say that Carolina's "Choo Choo" Charlie Justice is one of the best football players they ever saw on the gridiron.

Earl Gray attended the car races at Charlotte, North Carolina, and reported as having enjoyed it very much.

The reason James Cox is strutting around with his chest out so far is that he just became a proud father. "Congratulations, James."

We are glad to report that Ed Brackett is recuperating nicely. Fellows taking vacations in the last few weeks were Jack Rhodes, Thad Newman, Francis Osteen and James Cox.

The Refining bowling team has turned in some fine performances recently and are serving notice they will be rough from now on.

Storeroom News

Dick Allen served as a juror in the recent session of the Henderson County Court.

James A. Crisp and E. L. Ponder took their vacation this month, but we don't have any report at this time as to what they did.

Machine Room News

The man we consider as the luckiest man from Ecusta this month is none other than "Footsie" Frank Case. You say why? Well, Footsie was fortunate enough to attend the three world series games that were played in Cleveland. Footsie reported a wonderful time and for his description of the series he sums it up this way, "Man, those guys can really play baseball; they don't fool around." Incidentally we hear John Picklesimer was a lucky man also who saw part of the series. We haven't any report from John, but we know John, being a great baseball fan, was well pleased with the games.

Many of the Machine Room men take their vacations during September and October—some to travel, others to hunt and fish, work on their houses, gather their crops, attend some big football game or just loaf around home and rest.

A list of the late vacationers include L. P. Bagwell, Frank Case, Sherman Ducker, William Gash, Billy Haynie, Fred Miller, Milton Pace, Robert Pierce, John Picklesimer, Tom Stroupe, Ollie Vailencourt, Oscar Barrett, Olin Edney, Wae Mann and Carl Watson.

Nathan McMinn and Robert Head have been taking in some of the big football games also, and having seen Carolina play, they say that Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice is every bit the football player the Sportswriters credit him to be.

For more than an hour the mild-mannered little man in the witness box had squirmed helplessly under the cold, hostile questioning of the opposing counsel.

"You say," prompted the attorney, "that you have crossed the Atlantic seven times."

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

"And where were you born?"

"Then, sir," thundered the lawyer, "if you were born in New York and have crossed the Atlantic seven times, how does it happen that you aren't on the other side at this moment? Answer me that!"

"Because, sir," replied the witness, very quietly, "on my last trip I came home by way of Siberia and the Pacific Ocean."
