SPORTS

Bowling Season
In Full
Swing At Ecusta

King Sport will again reign for a night when members of All Ecusta Summer Sports Teams gather in the Ecusta Cafeteria on the evening of December 3rd at 7:00 P. M. A full program of entertainment, headed by the presence of Lou Brissie and Gil Coan, is on tap for the affair. Several outstanding features, such as a baseball movie, presentation of departmental trophies, turkey dinner with all the trimmings, and the popular game of bingo will be offered on the program.

Invitations to the occasion will be sent to Ecusta officials and to the Ecusta Personnel Committee.

This is the second year that Ecusta athletes will gather for fun and good food.

ECUSTA'S WNC BOWLERS TIED FOR TOP

Ecusta's WNC bowlers have been climbing steadily for the last few weeks in the WNC league standings; and at this writing our Ecusta team is tied with the Pisgah Motor Court and Champion keglers for first place. To give you an idea of the keen competition in the League this year, as of November 9 the bottom team was only six games behind the League's leaders.

The WNC League has a 28-week schedule which ends March 15. The teams bowl on Tuesday night of each week, playing on a home-to-home basis, using bowling alleys at Enka, Brevard, Biltmore and Asheville. If you would like to enjoy seeing a good bowling match some Tuesday night, below is Ecusta's schedule for the next five weeks.

November 23—*Ecusta vs. Reed & Abee

November 30— Ecusta vs. Army Store

December 7—*Ecusta vs. Enka.

December 14—*Ecusta vs. Standard Supply.

December 21—*Ecusta vs. Pisgah Motor Court.

*Denotes home matches.

With the 1948 and 1949 bowling season well under way, the main topic of discussion is bowling, and if you hear two fellows discussing splits, spares, strikes, misses and averages, they aren't talking about acrobatics, or about tires, or fishing and finances, they are discussing the good old game of bowling, using bowling lingo in their speech.

Last month the Maintenance Hawks were leading the league and as of November 10 the Champagne Cardinals and Champagne Cubs were tied for the League's leadership, followed closely by the Office Pirates and the Finishing Five. The Maintenance Hawks dropped to fifth place in the race. With fifteen weeks yet to go there is a possibility that the standings will be juggled quite a few times before the season ends.

John Emory, of the Research Rebels, led the League with the highest individual average for the first six weeks of bowling, but dropped to second place at the end of the seventh week, as Chris Rogers of the Champagne Cardinals forged ahead by one pin.

The ten high individual bowlers' averages for the first seven weeks of bowling are listed below.
