

Safety for You

YOU BET YOUR LIFE!

Even though we have experienced some Spring weather for several months, all indications point to our having some real Winter weather before gardening time arrives. Remember that winter driving is different, and that ice patches on the roadway can really cause serious trouble. Keep windshields clear of ice at all times, and above all, watch out for the other car. Always remember that tragedy can be averted through CARE.

Even though the majority of us like to indulge in moderate forms of "gambling" or "chance taking", we bet our lives when we stray away from safe habits that should be followed on our job or in the operation of a motor vehicle.

To realize that between 30 and 40 thousand lives are being snuffed out in traffic accidents each year, should impress each of us with the great importance of DRIVING WITH CARE.

When we attempt to pass a car on a curve or a hill . . . cross busy streets between intersections—and especially when we do so with our vision obscured . . . take foolish liberties with an ancient and decrepit automobile . . . choose our car with an eye to its sleek appearance only, disregarding its mechanical condition or its safety factors . . . depend on our 10-year-old car and our 5-year-old tires to carry us safely at high speeds . . . think we can make as good time in snow and sleet as we can on a clear, dry day . . . make a target of ourselves by not pulling off the roadway if we're stalled at night . . . get impatient in heavy traffic and pull out of line . . . suddenly turn into our driveway without giving an adequate hand signal . . . refuse to dim our lights just because the other fellow is blinding us with his . . . and when we blind ourselves with windshield stickers, fox tails, and other useless gadgets, we
