

Miss Sadie is not only "The Red Cross Lady", she is also a musician. She is shown sitting at her old-fashioned Church organ. She also plays the violin and the cello.

ed her arrival. There was always much discussion as to who would act as the patient, on whom she applied many bandages, tourniquets, and splints. Many persons have been recipients of her knowledge, and the results can be readily seen in the first-aid treatments by her students.

Miss Sadie received the "Good American" award on the Ted Malone radio show which was aired over the American Broadcasting Company network, March 24th at 11:00 A. M., an award which she justly deserves.

The American Red Cross is well aware of the good work that she has done. A Red Cross news-reel has been made of her work, and reproductions of it have been on the television screens of New York. A radio network show has given recognition of her services to the community. She was crowned Queen of Camp Carolina Aquatic School, and she was presented with the Red Cross Service medal.

Miss Sadie is typical of many people who have devoted their lives to serving humanity, but to us she is the one and only "Red Cross Lady."
