

ABOVE, Tobacco bed in Transylvania County just before the plants were transplanted in the field.

BELOW, Tobacco is sprayed to keep insects from damaging leaves, and hoed to keep out weeds.

ABOVE, The old method of flue-curing tobacco. Most farmers today have installed oil heaters with automatic controls which give a more even heat.

BELOW, Tobacco growing in the Little River Community.

