

for SAFETY

Never climb a fence or a tree with a loaded gun. If you are alone, climb carrying the gun with the action open and the chamber empty. Be sure the muzzle is in a position which will render it harmless to yourself and to others, and so you positively can avert an accident even if you should fall. If you prefer, put gun, with the chamber emptied and muzzle pointing away from you, through fence and on the ground before climbing over.

When you are working through a "blow-down" or across boulder covered ground, hold your gun securely in the crook of your arm. Keep the safety device on but ready to release if game should appear. By all means, be sure of your target before you pull the trigger. For your own safety's sake, wear a bright red cap.

Unload your gun before you place it in your car or before entering a tent or building. This will insure against accidental discharge of gun. Conley McKinnish, Lester Brown and Charles Galloway posed for these photos.
