Future Homemakers learn to make own clothes. Here Donarene McCall checks Joanne Owen's hemline to see that her skirt is the correct length.

Mrs. Ann B. Clapp, Rosman Home Economics Teacher, and FHA Advisor, and Alice Moses observe as Shirley Winchester does practice sewing.

The Rosman chapter's main project is the collecting of discarded clothing and remaking them into usable wearing apparel for the younger children.

and satisfactions of homemaking; (2) To emphasize the importance of worthy home membership; (3) To encourage democracy in home and community life; (4) To work for good home and family life for all; (5) To promote international good will; (6) To foster the development of creative leadership in home and community life; (7) To provide wholesome individual and group recreation; and (8) To further interest in home economics.

The forty members of the Rosman chapter hold meetings twice a month. In their meetings they stress the aims of the organization, learn parliamentary procedure, observe National holidays with appropriate celebrations, and have a social hour during which they enjoy games and light refresh-
