"His laughter was strange. It was filled with mockery for all things under heaven and earth, even for himself. His sister, Therese, called it devils' laughter." This is a passage from Frank Yerby's mighty novel—THE DEVILS' LAUGHTER. Jean Paul Marin—the magnificent hero—is only part devil and can be quite saintly, if occasion demands. THE DEVILS' LAUGHTER is a tale of passion and terror in a world gone mad with the wanton excitement of the French Revolution. A son of a wealthy merchant, Jean and his father have quarreled over Jean's hot-headed revolutionary writings and of his sisters marriage. These situations coupled with the complexities of Jeans' romantic life create a rich violent tale of men and women in a tumultous era of the past. THE FOXES OF HARROW and A WOMAN CALLED FANCY, by Yerby were among your favorites. We predict the same popularity for THE DEVILS' LAUGHTER.

The latest Nero Wolfe novel evolves around a beautiful woman in a Cadillac, a street urchin and a cop. In THE GOLDEN SPIDERS, Rex Stout introduces a new kind of criminal engaged in a peculiarly contemporary and vicious kind of crime. With perils galore, fast-thinking and brilliant strategy THE GOLDEN SPIDERS is a fine detective story.

Perry Mason is "up to his ears" in blackmail, murder and intrigue when he gets under way with the CASE OF THE GREEN-EYED SISTER. A gripping action-packed mystery is in store for you as you read, "Della Street, Perry Mason's confidential Secretary handed the lawyer a scented, engraved oblong of pasteboard. "If you're going to do anything for this woman," she said, "you'd better get a retainer. I think she'd cut your heart out for thirty-seven cents."—So begins the story of The CASE OF THE GREEN-EYED SISTER. We are sure that you will want to delve further into this tale of terror by Erle Stanley Gardner.
