

SPORTS

One hundred top archers from thirteen southeastern states will compete for honors in the 1954 Southeastern Archery Tournament at Camp Straus on June 25-27. The majority of these archers will come from South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Virginia, and various archery clubs in North Carolina. Several entries are also expected from the Cherokee Indian Reservation.

The Sylvan Valley Archery Club is host for the occasion, which will be the first southeastern meet ever held in this area.

It is expected that O. K. Smathers, defending target champion, will have some keen competition in the 1954 meet. Ossie has held the championship for the past four years. He also holds the North Carolina and Southern target championship, and last year took second place honors at the National meet.

Top right: The Target Matches will be operated along a similar arrangement as shown here. This is a scene from the North Carolina meet that was held at Camp Straus, with the Sylvan Valley Archers acting as the host club.

Right: O. K. Smathers of the Paper Division Electric Shop is the Southeastern Target Champion. He will defend his crown in the 1954 Southeastern Tournament to be held at Camp Straus on June 25-26-27.

