Children Work and Play In Harmony At The Camp Harry H. Straus Coaching School

The 1954 session of the Camp Harry H. Straus Coaching School showed a total of three hundred and eleven boys and girls having had a part in the program. Two hundred and thirty six received awards.

The school, built on the idea of teaching children to work and play together in harmony, was conducted as in previous years with a program slanted toward character building. Classes were held five days a week, Monday through Friday from 9:30 A. M. to 12 noon. The school opened on July 12 and closed August 6.

An outstanding feature of the school was the classes in swimming. During these periods of instruction many learned the fundamentals of swimming, while thirty five girls advanced to a higher class. Forty girls passed the deep water test.

The school closed with the presenting of certificates of Merit and Coaching School "T" shirts by Industrial Relations Manager E. B. Garrett. Those boys and girls having attended classes the required number of times were given the awards.
