

PEOPLE AND PICTURES

FILM DIVISION TEAM IN ACTION. Shown above is the Film Division booth at the Produce Packaging Association show held at the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, D. C. last month. Operating as a Message Center, the booth provided telephone, public address and messenger service to all show personnel and guests. A ticker tape machine in the booth kept produce people posted on industry news and other general information. From all reports, the booth was a smashing success! Shown here is Dan Mollo, Sales Promotion, in charge of booth, with Betty Wagner, model, Lois Gauthier, Sales Promotion, Doris Stevens, model, acting as messengers, and Ed Holloway, Midwestern District Manager, Andy Johnson, representative of Zellerbach Paper Corporation.

William R. Dwyer, English teacher at Rosman High School, is holding an 1878 Model Winchester (Hotchkiss) that belonged to his uncle, E. E. Stevenson of Boston. Mr. Stevenson carried the gun when he rode the plains of Texas as a cowboy from 1880 to 1885. The gun, made by Winchester Repeating Arms Company—B. B. Hotchkiss, is in excellent condition and shoots as good as ever.
