HOW TO FIND WALL STUDS:

From the American Home, a few helpful hints on HOW TO FIND WALL STUDS:

1. Tap wall using a wooden block. Wall sounds hollow between studs, solid over them.
2. Studs usually run in a vertical line above baseboard nails.
3. Verify stud location with a SMALL drill.

SIEBER'S POEMS TO BE PUBLISHED

(Special for the Echo) CHAPEL HILL—Old Well Publishers of Chapel Hill announce the publication and January release of IN THIS THE MARIAN YEAR by young N. C. poet H. A. Sieber of Hendersonville and Chapel Hill.

Mr. Sieber operates the well-known Ranch House supper club in this university village. An alumnus of the University of North Carolina (1947-1951), the poet returned to Chapel Hill upon his release from the military a few months ago.

An early poem by Sieber appeared in 1942 in THE ECHO, Employee publication of the Ecusta Paper Corporation, when he was a student at Brevard Elementary School. His father is Charlie Sieber of Ecusta. Like the rest of folks, the young poet "went modern", and IN THIS THE MARIAN YEAR may be some rather difficult reading for some people. Nevertheless, this volume of new poetry is an interesting example of what is being done by advance guard poets nowadays, and for those who read it . . . a rewarding experience.

T'OTHER SIDE O' TH' TRACKS

By Eugene Eggert

December! Already. Sort of time for reflections. Looking back, I guess most of us can say that 1954 wasn't too bad as years go. And for those for whom it wasn't so good, we hope 1955 will be better.

We still have some vacations to fall back on for news. And a vital statistic too. Ain't changin' yur name a vital statistic? That's what Edna Waldrop did. From Waldrop to Holden. Hope it wears well and will bring all kinds of happiness.

J. O. Davidson spent Thanksgiving week visitin' his and his wife's folks.

Doc and Mrs. Levy took a jaunt to Atlanta. Quite a town they sez.

Dick Moore is on vacation at the time o' this writing—get him later.

Mr. & Mrs. Schur are on vacation in Miami. Nice time o' year, I'd say.

Got us some Nimrods too. Harold Owen, Clarence Tinsley and Troy Zachary went — Nuttin' Fellers, we like venison.

Raymond Nicholson says he worked around the house. Should be getting done one o' these days, Ray.

The Al Skinners will be found enjoying their Christmas in their new home at 201 Park View Drive. Hope you got all your painting and fixin' done for the Holidays, Al.

We, on T'other side o' th' tracks want to take this opportunity to wish everybody on all sides o' th' tracks a very Merry Christmas—with all the nice things Santa should bring to good people—And the very Happiest and Best New Year. And drive safely — huh.
