terest in the welfare of the school; to him is due a large part of the credit for the successful operations of the College in the David Millard building this year. It was with no surprise but a great deal of pleasure that Biltmore College learned that superintendent Latham had recommended Mr. Connor for re-appointment.

Interest

A survey of the main interests of the students in a recent Sociology class disclosed the fact that more were interested in secretarial work than in any other field of activity. The vocational and avocational interests varied from "girls" to "penitentiary war dens." Several in the class desire to be church workers, and others prefer kindergarten work. Other interests of the group included: forestry, law, dancing, home economics, music, writing, and aviation.

Biltmore Players Are Successful At Chapel Hill

setting on an island off the Irish coast. For the excellent acting and stage setting this play won the production award.

The Biltmore Players, under the able directorship of Mr. Wilbur K. Morgan, have been very successful since they first entered the dramatic field in 1932. That year an original play, The Understanding Heart, by Leonard Rapport won an Authors award and a production award. War Brides also won a production award.

In 1933 The Sisters Tragedy won in the production contest, and Stars by Margaret Sicheloff won an author's award and a production award. Kneale Morgan's play Unto Us A Child Is Born won a production award.

Nuts by Evelyn Schaffle won an author's award in 1934 but lost in production. The Man Who Married A Dumb Wife also lost in production. A poster by Ed Duckett won an award.

Until this year Biltmore was tied with the dramatic association from Seaboard for the number of awards won, but since this contest Biltmore has won more awards than any other dramatic organization in the state. A hasty survey shows that the author's award has been won by a Biltmore student every year.

Cecil's Business College

What are you going to do during the summer months? Why not improve your time by specializing in business subjects? Many high school students review during the summer, Arithmetic, Spelling, English, and learn type-writing. Monthly rates on any subject. Students may enter any Monday. Your opportunities for any kind of employment will never be greater than your preparation.

The auditorium, on the night of the show, will be attractively decorated. Lighted panels for the walls are under construction, and other attractive ornaments will be used.

The director stated: "Several interesting performances have been arranged already, and more are expected to be entered."

Prize Offered For Best Essay On Sidney Lanier

The Asheville Chapter of the U. D. C., is offering a five dollar prize for the best essay written by a Biltmore College student on the subject "SIDNEY LANIER — SOLDIER, MUSICIAN, AND POET." Since there is no Southern poet represented in the Hall of Fame, the U. D. C. is trying very hard to have a bust of Sidney Lanier placed there, and the essays are to stress particularly why he should be so honored.
