WEEKLY ASSEMBLY PROGRAMS GIVEN FOR A-B-C STUDENTS

CLUB EVENTS

By RUTH REID

One of the most popular clubs at Asheville-Biltmore College is the Monogram Club. Members sponsored the election of a football queen. They are now carrying on various campaigns to buy jackets.

Sigma Mu Pi, honorary math fraternity, took ten new members into its organization.

A hayride was given by the Classical Co-Eds in October.

John Young was elected president of the International Relations Club. Other officers are Joan Glover, vice-president; Jane Hyslup, secretary-treasurer; and Annie Yarborough, public relations officer.

The Weepers and the Business Club took a combined tour through the Asheville Citizen-Times building.

The Glee Club is under the direction of Dot Drake, with Mary Kay Baber as accompanist.

Officers of the Business Club include Frances Penland, president; Nadine Allen, vice-president; and Nell Crowell, secretary-treasurer.

Editor-in-chief of the 1952 Summit is Dot Drake.

The Student Council sponsored the "Miss Buncombe County High School of 1951" contest.

Jim Self is the new president of the A. B. Libbers Radio Club. Mary Higgins Orr was named vice-president; Jeanne Sluder, secretary; Joe Patelidas, treasurer; and John Young, press agent.

Asheville-Biltmore College students have been privileged to attend many interesting and varied assembly programs this semester. The most outstanding of the weekly programs are listed below.

Dr. Pierce told about his trip to Afghanistan. He spoke on the customs and language of the people, and displayed various souvenirs.

A talent show was given, at which Mary Kay Barber introduced the five participants. The mixed octet sang two spirituals.

W. A. Egerton, director of industrial relations of the American Enka Corporation, discussed responsibilities in connection with American rights.

Christmas

By JEANNE SLUDER

Soft snow flakes gently cover the earth and hide its bare ugliness as the world prepares for Christmas.

Christmas is a day set aside for paying tribute to a small Babe born many years ago, and who grew up to become King of Kings. Let us remember that holy birth and pray for peace and good will among men.
