Recognizing Excellent Teachers

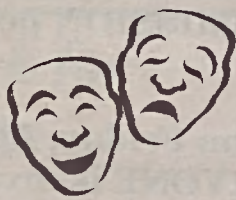

Each year, the UNCA community selects seven faculty members to be recognized for teaching excellence. The Teaching Awards Committee needs your assistance in identifying those teachers who have demonstrated teaching excellence for the 2002-2003 awards. Please take some time and make your nomination(s). You may e-mail your nominations to anengelen@unca.edu or yearout@unca.edu. To make a nomination please send the following:

- The faculty person's name
- Two sentences explaining why you have nominated this person

Then send your nomination(s) to the e-mail addresses listed above. You may make as many nominations as you wish. However, please make only one nomination per e-mail message. The committee asks that you make your nominations before May 15, 2002.

FREE STUDENT PLAYS!

Student-directed plays will be performed this Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23 at 7:30pm in Carol Belk Theatre. Tickets are free, and any donations will go to Helpmate, P-FLAG, and our-VOICE. The plays include "Stop Kiss," directed by Angela Koon, the story of how two women respond when one is beaten up in an anti-gay hate crime. The other, "What's Wrong With Angry," directed by Terhan McDaniel, concerns the problems of being a gay male in high school. Both Angela and Terhan are senior drama students and excellent directors. Come check them out!
