

Campus Notes

There is just one waiter as far as Ida is concerned; but she has as competition a girl from back home. What Ida would like to know is how these girl friends from home can be removed.

Why does Bert Taylor always occupy a front row seat at the football games? Could it be that she likes one of the back-field men?

Are "lost loves" of sophomores acquired by freshmen? Bernice knows something about this.

In room 305 in West Hall there is a "S. P." column on the woodwork which might prove of interest to some of the boys. C. W. is leading the list.

It is unusual for a glass of plain water to have an effect on a person. It's possible, says Frances Sawyer.

Found: A way to keep that youthful figure—help the boys rake leaves.

If a certain young lady hadn't got hungry and turned out the light late Saturday night, two more girls might have slept on the fire escape.

Evelyn Smith has gone in for jewelry—she is wearing an honor pin and a ring.

Did you know that there are two pair of opera glasses on second floor in West Hall. The girls use them to watch the Ross Hall boys come over the hill.

The vote for the most popular boy on the campus goes either to Horace Raper, the bell-ringer, or to Marshall, the postman.

Satenik Nahikian thinks her roommate took unfair advantage of her when she dated Jack Sunday night. Satenik was socially restricted.

Price Cornelius goes in for Duke letters of two kinds, football and correspondence.

Lucy Strum says, "If you want to live, stay out of rooms where there are mice." Last Monday night Lucy was trapped in the bathtub for fifteen minutes.

A certain picture was taken out of one of the girl's rooms at the Coltrane's. This is a mystery.

"One little tear drop doesn't mean a shower." Tune of the week.

Evidently there is a ghost at the Coltrane's. Occasionally there comes a knocking at Ruth Coltrane's boudoir, and Martha has a complex of being followed downstairs.

Glee Clubs Organized

The boys' and girls' glee clubs were organized at the first of the year and have been functioning very successfully under the direction of Miss Hatcher, the music teacher.

The girls' glee club meets three times each week—these days being Monday, Wednesday, and Friday morning from eight o'clock until eight forty-five. The officers have not been elected at the present time.

The boys meet on Tuesday and Thursday mornings before classes begin. Their officers are as follows: Manager, Harry Hawkins; secretaries of the various sections' Mitchell Faulkner, Donald Stroble, James Rogers, and John Reynolds.

Recently the boys serenaded the girls of the various dormitories and from all reports their singing was much enjoyed. At the present time Miss Hatcher and the two clubs are working on an operetta which they hope to give before Thanksgiving.

Mnemosyneans and Delphians Hold Joint Gathering

Saturday night was a high light in the social history for both the Mnemosynean and the Delphian literary societies. These two, brother and sister societies, held a joint meeting in the school chapel beginning at 8:15 and ending at approximately 10 o'clock, when the last of the refreshments had been consumed. Through the combined efforts of Helen Avett, Becky Brady, Bernice Brantley, Evelyn Swaringen, and a committee from the boys' society a delightful program was given in the form of a radio broadcast with Eddie Powell as announcer. It is hoped that another meeting of this sort may be held soon. Following is the program which was so effectively carried out.

Morning Exercise Bubber Goodin, (Director) Bernice Brantley, Johnny McLeod and Mary B. Furr.

Fewell Food Hour Donnie Patterson.

Daffy Dilly Time Boys Old Timey Music.

Becky's and Beard's pleasant little front porch episode may come to tears before it's over.

Mary McLarty says Mt. Pleasant is "a thousand miles from Hendersonville."

Little Miss Duckett likes the boys blond or brunete—or, should I say, she likes blonds and brunets.

Wanted: A piano-tuner at Virginia Lodge, so that the orchestra will come over to play again.

Vesper Service

On last Sunday evening at the vesper hour a most impressive program was presented. James Crouse, chairman of the boys' mid-week programs, was in charge. Professor M. G. Pangle spoke on the theme "Beauty in Common Things." The platform was decorated with beautiful autumn flowers and colored leaves. A quartet composed of Mary Helen Teague, Emily Sue Mallonee, Marshall Houts, and Leighton Presson rendered a beautiful musical selection. Miss Annie Ruth Call played a violin solo.

The service was well attended. Let's keep this record—it will mean a great deal to each of us!

Girls' Mid-week Service

A very interesting program was presented Thursday night at the girls' mid-week prayer service. Miss Sara King had charge of the program. The theme of the discussion was "Friendship."

The girls are showing a fine spirit in attending these services. They mean a great deal to us. We cherish the inspiration we receive from each one.

Clios Have Call Meeting

On Tuesday evening, October 29, the Cliosopic Literary Society held a call meeting for the purpose of electing officers. After a program consisting of devotional, roll call, declamation by Richard Queen, and a poem by Frank Heffner. The meeting was turned over to the election of officers. The following were elected:

President	Richard Queen
Vice-President	Francis Craven
Secretary-Treasurer	Norman Plott
Chairman Ways and Means
Committee	Tom Graham
Critic	Frank Heffner
Censor	D. D. Pope, Jr.
Chaplain	Taylor Byrd
Sergeant at Arms	Sam Ardrey

Personal

Bessie Morrison and Ora Belle Myers spent last week-end at their home in Woodleaf. During their visit they attended the conference at Salisbury.

Thomas Peeler and Robert Abernathy, last year's students, were visitors of the Taylor Hall boys over the week-end.

Louise Spaulding went home to West Asheville for the week-end.

The families of Satenik Nahikian, Evelyn Swaringen, and Betty Brookshire were visitors on the campus Sunday.

D. D. Pope visited his parents in Woodleaf and attended the Methodist Conference last week-end.

Church Clubs Baptist Meet

The Baptist club was opened by singing, "My Faith Looks up to Thee." Edna Mae Hines then led devotionals, after which the group united in repeating the Lord's Prayer. Ellen Waddell gave some special music. Rev. Paul Hartsell gave a short talk on the advisability of the Baptist students affiliating themselves with the B.Y.P.U. It was decided to get someone from Mars Hill College to come here and tell the group about the work of the Baptist Student Union. After the song, "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee", Rev. Mr. Hartsell closed the meeting with prayer.

Presbyterian Club Has a Meeting

The Presbyterian Club of Brevard College met Wednesday, October 30, in Room 222 of the Administration Building. The Vice President, Frances Goforth, took charge in the absence of the President, Charlotte Patton. After the business of the organization, the Rev. R.R. Bedinger, D.D., who is the superintendent of home missions and evangelistic work of the Asheville Presbytery, gave a very interesting and inspiring talk to the group.

Methodist Meet

At a meeting of the Methodist Club Wednesday, October 30, James Crouse, Mitchell Faulkner, and Ben Whisenant were elected to serve on the executive committee to take the place of three of last year's members who did not return to school.

Earl Pearson, president of the club, led in a short devotional and conducted the business. Mr. Trowbridge made a few impressive remarks about the purposes of the denominational clubs.

Club Organizations

Pauline Auer as secretary-treasurer. There were about fifteen members present at the meeting.

The following were elected officers of the Travel Club, of which Mrs. Pangle is sponsor: Frank Penland President, and Octavia Latham secretary.

The Romance Language Club met in the girls, living room. They had a very interesting program, reading a scene from "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," which they will act at the next meeting. Officers have not been elected yet.

The Dramatic Club also met with Bubber Goodin as president. Other officers will be elected soon. Try-outs will be held next week.

We were very glad to have the families of Frank Heffner and Russel Bostic as visitors on our campus last Sunday.
