

On the Hill

As far as Ross Hall is concerned, the big event of last week was the weiner roast held Saturday evening on the Ross Hall lawn. Games were played around the fire until nine-thirty, when sticks were passed around and weiners were roasted over the coals. The girls present were Ruth Sylvester, Sibyl Spratt, Ruth Creasman, Ellen Gidney, Virginia Hunter, Betty Brookshire, Frances Watts, Virginia Barnes, Nell Washburne, Edith Allen, Louise Ward, Helen Avett, Meredith White, Donnie Patterson, Inez Allison, Geraldine DeVier, Elizabeth Dozier, and Alberta Taylor. Miss Smith acted as chaperone.

Ralph Sheppard, Bob Stevenson, and Milliard Whitesides have opened a photography shop in Ross Hall, guaranteeing satisfactory work at reasonable prices. They are also throwing on the market a block of their stock at twenty-five cents per share.

John Bailey spent the week-end at his home in Asheville.

Beauty Hints

Boy's Opinion of Bright Nail Polish

It's tacky- Bob Andrews.

It looks like a Barnum and Bailey circus to me- Ed Powell.

I like it- Thos. Porter.

It's all right as long as it isn't too red, but if they want to wear it let 'em- Norman Plott.

They (the fingers) might be mistaken for radishes- Louis Williamson.

It looks entirely too artificial. I like it natural. - Hazel Ramsey.

It's O.K. I suppose. They have their own ideas of attractiveness. Mitch Faulkner.

I think bright fingered polish is very attractive if used at the proper time, and I admire a girl who wears it regardless of what others think. Bud Gaston.

I don't like it, but sometimes it does match their lip stick. - J.R. Burton.

I don't like it, but it must be all right—She uses it.- Leighton Presson.

Sissy - Odell Salmon.

It's the gypsy in 'em, but it hasn't burned me yet. - Jack Armstrong.

Well girls, pick your boy, and act accordingly.

Vespers

Vespers last Sunday evening were carried out in a very impressive and inspiring manner. The subject for the evening, "Peace," was very appropriately chosen as it was so near Armistice Day. Rev. R. D. McNeer arranged the program and acted as leader.

The following program was presented:
Piano Prelude Margaret Wilson
Hymn, "We've a Story to Tell to the Nations"

Prayer

Flute Solo

"Peace"

"The Prince of Peace" Esther Jordon
"Peace in the Individual Heart"

"The Spirit of Peace" Frances Watts

Midweek Devotional Service at Taylor Hall

On Thursday evening, November 7, the men of Taylor Hall met in their midweek prayer service. Ward Everhart presided.

The meeting was opened by singing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Marshall Houts conducted the devotional service. The college orchestra rendered a selection.

The meeting was then turned over to Tom Davall, who gave an interesting account of his recent trip to Nassau, in the British West Indies. He described the daily life of the inhabitants of the island, and told of his visits to some of the points of interest.

Mr. Dendy dismissed the assembly.

Exchange News

Now Lenoir-Rhyne is going to have a mascot. They have chosen a bear for this very important office, but their bear is not to be any ordinary one like those found in the woods. He must be well bred and cultured so as to correspond with college ideals. I wonder if someone could not suggest a mascot for us. Do you suppose it would be possible to capture a baby tornado?

From the APPALACHIAN we learn of a very successful homecoming celebration at A. S. T. C. recently. We hope that someone will get behind this matter in our school and make plans for such an occasion here on Thanksgiving Day.

Tell - Tales

Last week's column of things we couldn't imagine was not completely published, so I'm starting off this with the rest.

Things we couldn't imagine:

Leighton Presson with a bass voice.
Virginia Henderson in a disagreeable mood.

Bill Patton without a sense of humor.

Betty Brookshire serious.

Ed Varner with any degree of dignity.

Bud Gaston dating in the girls' dormitory.

Harriet Reinhardt with no energy.
Clem Chrisco not looking sweet and innocent.

Junior Bahnsen with a gift of gab.
Marcho and Jack Armstrong with a common interest.

C. W. not liking ice-cream.

Not having beneficial chapel programs.

Class cuts with no points off and free rides home.

And to add a few:

Mary Helen without a daily letter from Fred.

Anyone being able to eat seventeen hamburgers at one meal.

Paula being interested in agriculture.

No bread, butter, and sugar for dessert.

Anyone being able to tell which of the Boyd twins is which.

Emma Leape not busy doing something.

Johnnie McLeod interested in any of the boys around here, and not interested in Riverside.

Thanksgiving Day should be homecoming day, so many of last year's students are coming for the game. I saw Jean Thomas, Bill Murry, Snookie, Ruth Henson, Charles Cherry, and Richard Howie at the Belmont Abbey game, all of whom are planning to come to the game.

Jean and Bill are working. Ruth is going to business school, and Snookie is back in high school. Richard is at Davidson, where he is majoring in psychology and economics. He says that Brevard is a grand place and that he would like to be back. I hear that Anna Lucy, Margie, Mary Vance, and Heafner are all coming too. The should be plen- of school spirit Thanksgiving.

Warren Harrelson is corresponding with a girl from "Sacred Heart." I'm not sure just where that is. I wonder if the address should be Sacred Heart instead. Warren gave me definite proof Sunday night that he does wear socks sometimes.

Evelyn Smith was busy last week-end entertaining company from Erskine.

Bob Dixon very quickly developed a case of chicken pox, but he recovered in a hurry too.

The weiner roast at Ross Hall must have been grand fun, so many girls are hoping those boys will have another one soon.

Lehman Williams is a very good amateur photographer. The other day John Hoyle was seen paying Lehman for a picture of a certain blonde freshman from West Hall.

Elaine seems to be interested in the newspaper—or perhaps it is one of the staff members.

Mary McLarty thoroughly enjoyed the banquet held at conference in Greensboro. What happened to make it so entertaining, Mary?

Bill Davis says that he hasn't seen Cupid since last year.

Matt Herring seems to be quite attractive as far as some of these sophomore girls are concerned.

Joe Jack is cultivating a mustache. He must be trying to turn into a Casanova.

This Mary Freeman-Ned Swan affair seems rather serious.

Helen says it was nice to receive an invitation to the homecoming at Davidson last week-end.

Clubs

Suez Canal and Ethiopia, since she has visited them. Five new members joined the club.

Pre-medical

The Pre-medical Club held its meeting in the chemistry laboratory. Dr. Bradley, the speaker, was unable to come, so the club adjourned after the Scripture reading by Muriel Hegler and after a short business session.

Dramatic

Officers elected at the meeting of the Dramatic Club are as follows: Bubber Goodin, president; Frances Goforth, vice-president; Evelyn Smith, secretary; Dan Williams, treasurer. The club is going to present a one act play, "Sunset," within the next few weeks. The cast is as follows: Frances Goforth, Satinik Nahikian, Eugenia Coltrane, Leighton Presson, Bob Dixon, and Bubber Goodin.

Photo - Nature

The Photo-Nature Club had a most interesting meeting. Bob Stevenson gave a talk on bird houses and making them. The initiation of the new members into the club consists of two hours of work each in the club's flower garden. The club is going on a sunrise hike Sunday morning. They are also working on the club album.
