Literary Societies Are Reorganized

At reorganization meetings of the literary societies last Tuesday night less than one-fourth of the student body attended to enroll themselves as members.

The groups will meet again Friday night and every Friday night in the future. All groups elected officers and appointed committees to draw up a constitution. The meetings are recorded in detail in the following paragraphs.

Mnemosynean

The Mnemosynean Literary Society meeting was held in the girls' living room Tuesday, February 18, with Louise Ward presiding. One of the outstanding features of the discussion was the desire for faculty supervision. Ida Whisenant was elected chairman of the committee to draw up a constitution, which is to be presented to the society at its next meeting.

The following officers were elected: president, Edith Beard; vice president, Bernice Brantley; secretary, Donnie Patterson; treasurer, Virginia Henderson; chaplain, Eunice Arnold.

Delphian

The Delphian Literary Society met in Room 221 for its reorganization meeting last Tuesday night at seven o'clock.

Marshall Houts was elected president and he presided over the meeting while the following other officers were elected: Bobby Rhinehardt, vice president; C. W. Harmon, secretary; Jimmie Rogers, treasurer and chairman of ways and means committee; Mitchell Faulkner, chaplain; Eddie Carlisle, critic; Bob Dixon, reporter, and Bill Edwards sergeant-at-arms.

A committee was appointed to draw up a constitution to be presented as soon as possible.

News in Brief

Plans are in process of completion for the freshman-sophomore theatre party that is to be given Wednesday evening, March 4, at the Clemson Theatre. Detailed arrangements will be announced later.

The Dramatic Club will present "Skidding," a three-act play in the college auditorium, Friday night, March sixth.

The biology department has received a balopticon, which is one of the most modern pieces of equipment for illustrated class room work. This machine—somewhat like the projecting machine used in a theatre—projects opaque objects such as pictures, printed matter, and lantern slides. The machine can be used effectively in a light-

Tuesday, February 18 to reorganize and to formulate plans for future work. Sara King presided, and the former officers were reelected: vice president, Martha Walker; secretary and treasurer, Paula Briggs; chaplain, Lallah Mae Edwards; sergeant-at-arms, Betty Brookshire; and critic, Ruth Sylvester.

After a short devotional period there was a discussion of dues and fines. A committee was selected to draw up a constitution for the society.

Clio-Sophic

Bill Davis was elected president at the reorganization meeting of the Clio-Sophic Literary Society last Tuesday night.

Eighteen members affiliated themselves with the society at its first meeting. There was a discussion on faculty membership which ended with no definite conclusion.

Bob Sumner was elected vice president; Norman Plott, secretary-treasurer; Wilson Braswell, chaplain; Frank Heffner, censor; Earl Pearson, critic; and Sam Ardrey, sergeant-at-arms.

A committee was appointed to form a constitution.

Drama at Vespers

Sunday evening, February 16, at the vesper hour "Neighbors", a one-act play by Zona Gale, was presented in the college auditorium, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Carlyle.

When the action in the play began, all the neighbors of a little village were complaining of their little troubles and grievances; but as the play progressed and it became necessary for all to work together for a common cause, they forgot these troubles. By working to help someone else they learned to get joy and happiness out of life.

The characters were:

Grandma	Emma Leape
Miss Diantha Abel	Bessie McFadden
Ezra Williams	Ferrell Young
Peter	Frank Heffner
Inez	Billie Bunday
Miss Elmira Moran	Corine Self
Miss Trot	Lallah Mae Edwards
Miss Carry Ellsworth	Mary Ross

Music Recital

Valentine afternoon at four o'clock the girls' department of music presented, before a small invited group, its first program of the year in the school auditorium.

The program rendered was varied with selections by the girls' glee club, vocal solos and a trio, and piano solos and a duet. Miss Hatcher appeared on the program singing "Ave Maria."

The program consisted of the following numbers: "Go Lovely Flower" and "American Lullaby" by the glee club; "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses", a vocal solo, by Ethel Kerr; "Troyka", a piano solo, by Ellen L. Gidney; "Dream Tryst", a vocal solo, by Lenora Randall; "Off to Market Jonnie", and "Lying Little Daisy", vocal solos, by Eugenia Coltrane; "Elegy", a piano duet, by Ellen Wadel and Ellen Gidney; "Ave Maria", a vocal solo, by Miss Hatcher; and "The Shephred's Song", a vocal trio, by Lenora Randall, Mary McLarty, and Ethel Kerr.
