

The Clarion

The Brevard College Weekly

Vol. I

Brevard College, Brevard, North Carolina, May 8, 1936.

No. 26

Wofford Dean Speaks At Chapel

On Monday morning, May 4, at the assembly period, Dr. Mason Dupree, dean and registrar of Wofford College, addressed the student body along the theme of college motto. After the assembly period Dr. Dupree held individual conferences with those men who are interested in going to Wofford or any other institution after graduation from Brevard.

In his talk Dr. Dupree stated that the process of education is the biggest business that the Federal Government spends money on today. He showed us how conditions have improved considerably in educational affairs within the last two or three decades, but he stated that no business continues unless it gets dividends, and this truth applies to education as well as to other business. He said that many people were contributing to education today other than the students themselves.

Dr. Dupree divided his talk into three parts. He first said that we should be thinking people and think straight and thoroughly about a problem. He stated that the body of knowledge is of considerable size, and that it is the only capital on which we can base our thinking. He suggested that one obtain as much knowledge as possible in a usable form and have an intellectual interest in one's work. The second main topic was that we should be doers. Efficiency is the thing that counts even in very small things. The last part of his talk Dr. Dupree devoted to the discussion of a motive behind all thought and deeds. He stated that one must have a definite purpose and ideal to give poise and stability and to avoid aimlessness. In closing he said that the best motive one could have was the motive of service and a feeling that one was obligated to society. He made the statement that all great men have been servants of humanity.

There are just four weeks and three days until commencement on June 10. Five days later summer school starts.

(Cut courtesy THE PENNSYLVANIA TIMES)

James Edwin Carlisle, who was recently elected president of next year's student body, will be inaugurated into office next Monday at the assembly in the impressive candle ceremony. At this time other council members will go into office and their duties will begin with the instigation service.

Amateur Night Next Monday

New—different—and original—are the three main attributes, promised by the freshman class, of "Amateur Night," which will be presented in the auditorium on next Monday night.

This program will reveal recognized and new entertainers who, prior to this attraction, have not appeared on any program in this school. All those appearing have gone through the machine, and they are the most polished the best of the entries. There has been no rehearsal of the entire group, however, and those not performing to meet the requirements will get the gong.

The program will begin promptly at eight o'clock and to be sponsored by the leading business firms of the world. Stage details have been arranged, and approximately twenty people will perform in song, dance, and minstrel. Superlatives of the class will be presented by the president of the fresh-

Continued on page 4

Students Enjoy Pig Roast

On Saturday evening, May 2, after the Mars Hill baseball game, students faculty, and friends were entertained at a gala affair when the members of Mr. Colvard's agriculture class and the girls' Home Economics class fed them at a pig roast.

The meal was served in picnic style with everyone filing past a well filled table and getting their plate filled by the boys and girls who were serving. After this the guest ate while sitting on the grass under the apple trees in the orchard. About two hundred twenty-five people were served including guests from the town and the members of the Mars Hill baseball squad.

The boys of the class killed the pig Friday and spent the remainder of that day in getting everything in readiness for the cooking; and Saturday was spent in cooking the food. The menu consisted of barbecued pig, potato salad, cole slaw, bread, apples, and iced tea with lemon.

Before the close of the meal one of the Mars Hill boys, acting in behalf of the entire squad, expressed their appreciation to the class for the delightful occasion.

After the meal the time was spent in walking around the orchard which was beginning to bloom and which offered a very beautiful sight.

Sigma Pi Alpha

Monday evening, May 4, the members of the Zeta chapter of Sigma Pi Alpha, national honorary fraternity for students of foreign languages, met in the office of West Hall.

The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the eligibility of various students and the possibility of asking them to join the fraternity.

Miss Hayes, who organized the chapter here at Brevard and is now the faculty advisor as well as an active member, spoke about her trip she recently made to Wake Forest.