Several Graduates Will Enter Other Colleges Next Year

The present prospect is that at least forty members of this year's graduating class will enter other colleges at the beginning of the new college year. Edith Beard of Charlotte has already entered the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro. She will be joined later by Vivian Moore of Andrews, Rena Morgan and Emma Martin of Gold Hill, Madeline Farthing of Sugar Grove, Bessie Mae McFadden of Flat Rock, Wylma Ferguson of Asheville, Jane Rhae Lackey of Stony Point, and Ethelene Goodnight of Mount Ulla. These young women have already been admitted to junior class standing.

Dan B. Williams of Booneville, who graduated in March, has already entered the Naval Academy in Annapolis. Millard Whiteside of Hendersonville has likewise been admitted to the Naval Academy. Each of these young men was accepted without examination on academic subjects on the basis of their records in Brevard.

Marlin Schreyer of Fletcher and C. W. Harmon of Winnsboro, S. C. have been accepted in Wofford College, Helen Avett of Cornelius in Greensboro, William Davis of Badin in Davidson, Robert Stevenson of Hendersonville, Lloyd Parks of Lexington, and Taylor Bird of Horse Shoe in the University of North Carolina.

It is understood that Ralph Shepard of Washington, N. C. and Gordon Barbour of Saluda will enter Wake Forest College and that Richard Queen, James Deavor, and Queen Justice will go to Western Carolina Teacher's College at Cullowhee.

Dickson Willis of Vale has already been enrolled in Berea College, located at Berea, Kentucky. Sara Lou Kiger of Mt. Airy and Louise Ward of Hickory will enter Berea in September.

Other institutions such as Duke, State, East Carolina Teacher's College and Catawba are being considered by other members of the class. It is particularly gratifying to college officials to have the assurance that its graduates are having their credits accepted in the best colleges of North Carolina and other states.

The American Bible Society recently announced that the Bible or some part of it has been published in 972 languages.

A New Summer Quarter Opens July 6, Will Extend Ten Weeks

Arrangement has just been made for the opening of a new summer quarter Monday, July 6. This special quarter will extend through ten full weeks ending Saturday, September 12. During this period it will be possible for a student to complete one quarter of work or one-third of a year. Freshmen only will be admitted for this quarter. Students entering as freshmen for the first time or freshmen desiring to repeat certain courses will be eligible for entrance. Classes in English, mathematics, chemistry, and history will be conducted.

College authorities have made arrangement for this special quarter because of their belief that there are a great many students who would prefer to enter in July rather than wait until September. Young people who are not profitably employed will find it to their advantage to attend college for the entire quarter.

Under a recent ruling of the College administration, students will not be permitted to have part-time jobs until they have been in college at least one quarter. This arrangement makes it possible for a new student to prove his ability as a student and also demonstrate his willingness to accept assigned tasks. New students who may find it necessary to have self-help will do well to enter in July and thus be ready for help in September. This arrangement means that the new student will pay the entire expense for the summer quarter.

A student who enters July 6 may remain in college ten weeks for a total charge of $61.00, exclusive of books and laundry. This provision makes it possible for a student to reduce his expenses for the first quarter to an appreciable extent.

It likewise enables a student to complete his work in Brevard College three months earlier than he would if he should enter in September.

The College administration strongly urges freshmen who have failed two or more courses in previous quarters to return to the College July 6 and remove these failures before the beginning of the fall quarter in September. As a matter of fact, new students will find it possible to begin their work in college under more favorable conditions. Classes will be somewhat smaller and more opportunity for conferences with teachers will be given. It would appear that the entire plan should work to the great advantage of those who may be interested.

Dr. J. Henry Highsmith of Raleigh Delivers Commencement Address

It is the generally accepted opinion that Brevard College officials were very fortunate in the selection of Dr. J. Henry Highsmith of the North Carolina State Department of Education as commencement speaker. From the beginning of Brevard College, Dr. Highsmith has shown himself friendly to the enterprise. In April 1935 he and Dr. J. E. Hillman, representing the North Carolina College Conference, made a study of the situation here and recommended certain improvements which should be made. Again in May of this year these two officials made another study of the same situation. On the basis of the investigation, Brevard College has received accreditation by the College Conference and has been received into membership of the American Association of Junior Colleges.

Dr. Highsmith acquitted himself with great credit in his address to the graduating class. Taking as his subject, "What Now", he emphasized that in the present world order it is necessary for a young person to give attention to his physical and mental health, the matter of suitable salesmanship, the choice of a vocation, and the development of wholesome personality.

Through a loud-speaker device, the entire commencement program was carried to large groups of visitors who were unable to find seats in the auditorium. Some of them found seats in the library, while others assembled in the corridors and on the lawn.

Students Visit High Falls

Practically the entire summer school student body mounted two rather large trucks last Saturday, June 20, which immediately motored to the beautiful High Falls about twelve miles southeast of Brevard.

The group arrived there at two-

Summer Recreation

In order that the extra-curricula activities may be of more interest and contain a deeper competitive spirit, the students on roll for the summer quarter have been placed in one of two groups which are evenly divided.

These groups are of a peculiar set-up since they will work with each other, against each other, and for each other. In athletics they will work in competition; in social events they will work together; and in a general way they will work for the enjoyment of each other.

Each group is composed of about forty students and six faculty members. The groups were divided by faculty, and the first meetings were conducted at the assembly period Thursday, June 18. James Rogers was elected as leader of one group and Odell Salmon as head of the other.

Committees on athletics, social events, dramatics, and singing have been chosen; and they are forming plans for the entire summer. It is hoped that there can be in athletics tennis, soft ball, horse shoe, croquet, and various lawn games of a lighter nature. Each group will present several dramatic productions, the first of which will be presented within three weeks. Each section will be the guest of the other at two or more social events during the course of the summer.

Already a great deal of interest is being shown by the forming of these two groups which have not as yet had time to get thoroughly underway.

Other than the work of these two groups the entire student body will go hiking to a near-by point of interest every Saturday that the weather permits. Excursions will be conducted to Mount Pisgah, Caesar's Head and the Vanderbilt estate in Asheville.

Arrangements have been made with the city officials in charge of the swimming pool for Brevard students to have reduced rates and the College is furnishing to each student one free swim per week.

Eighty Students On Roll

Approximately eighty students have enrolled, either in the high school or in the college department, for Brevard's second summer quarter which opened Monday, June 15.

Instruction, which is being given by the majority of Brevard's regular faculty, began at eight-thirty on Tuesday morning. About twenty
