

COMMENCEMENT EDITION

Dr. Highsmith To Speak

The commencement address to the graduating class will be delivered by Dr. J. Henry Highsmith of Raleigh, Wednesday morning, June 10, at eleven o'clock. About a hundred graduates will receive their diplomas at this time from this two-year old institution.

This day has also been set aside as home-coming for alumni of Brevard Institute, Weaver College, and Brevard College. Approximately two thousand people are expected to come and bring baskets for the lunch which will be served in picnic style at one o'clock. In order to accommodate the large number of people so that they may hear the addresses, loud speakers will be put up at strategic points on the campus. The Alumni groups will meet at two o'clock to formulate plans for next year's work. Brevard College alumni will meet in the parlor of West Hall; Weaver College in the auditorium; and Brevard Institute in the College Library. The concert by the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra which was scheduled had to be called off because of a conflict, but the remainder of the afternoon will be taken up with activities of various kinds.

Student Plays Presented

The Dramatic Club, under the direction of Miss Smith, presented the four plays written by creative English students and judged to be the winners of the recent contest. These plays were given before an audience in the college auditorium last Saturday evening. The four plays presented were, "The Lost Sheep," by Margaret Ryan, "Waiting," by Frances Goforth; "To the Rescue," by Lorena Rogers; and "White Beans and Fat-Back," by Leighton Presson.

Margaret Ryan's play told the story of how two young children were lost in a blizzard while coming from school and portrayed the efforts that were made to find them. At the end the family was gathered together, reading the Bible. The scripture selected for reading was that promise made that if even one of a hundred sheep was to stray away, the Master would leave the Determination means stick right when you are right, and turn around and get a new hold when you are wrong.

Freshman Honor Students

The high honor for freshman students this year, that of being marshals for the commencement exercises, has been won by Marshall Houts, Evelyn Swaringen, Emma Leape, Lottie Frazier, Margaret Wilson, Ned Medford, and Ethel Blythe.

The seven freshmen who make the highest scholastic rating for the fall and winter quarters are the ones chosen. This year there will be two chief marshals as Evelyn Swaringen and Marshall Houts tied for first place and will act together. Emma Leape was only half a point behind the leaders, and the others came close in the order in which their names are given.

Two New Faculty Members

Two additions have been made to faculty for next year. Dr. Burt W. Loomis from Limestone College and Mr. Grady Campbell of Berea will take up their duties here soon.

Dr. Loomis is coming here as professor of psychology and will take charge of the Department of Student Guidance. He received his masters degree from Columbia University and his Ph. D. from Peabody. For the past two years he has been teaching at Limestone College. He will arrive here in time to begin work in September at the beginning of the fall quarter. Along the line of student guidance he will hold conferences with the students at any time in regard to choosing vocations, and it will be

Clarion Staff for Next Year

Next year's CLARION staff was elected at a student assembly Tuesday morning, June 2. Those elected were Robert Sumner, business manager; Odell Salmon, editor; Evelyn Swaringen, associate editor; and Clem Thomas, circulation manager. These people were nominated by the retiring staff and were accepted unanimously by the student body. Eddie Carlisle, new student body president, presided over the election.

Bob Sumner comes to Brevard College from Rock Hill, South Carolina, and has had experience in journalism, serving as assistant advertising manager this year. Next year the offices of business manager and advertising manager will be combined into one, so that his work this year will be of much value to him. Sumner is also a member of the Student Council for next year.

Odell Salmon is from the Children's Home in Winston-Salem and is a graduate of the J. R. Reynolds High School of that city. In high school he was active in journalism work and served on the news paper staff there. Here he has acted as associate editor of the CLARION and vice-president of the Freshman Class for the past year. Recently he has been elected president of the Clisophic Literary Society for the first quarter of next year.
