Thanksgiving Dance At College

Above are several of the Brevard college students who were present at the annual Thanksgiving dance, sponsored this year by the Bailar club. Many old friends returned to the campus for the holiday which saw the Tornados of Brevard down Mars Hill college by the score of 33 to 13.

Yearbook Staff Is Sponsoring Photo Contest

Gerald Martin, editor-in-chief of the 1949 Pertelote, reports that progress on the new Brevard college annual is "as well as could be expected" The staff consists of 18 members and holds weekly meetings to discuss progress and talk over plans

So far, the cover has been decided upon as well as the dedication. At present a theme is being discussed and the business staff is busy taking subscriptions and soliciting advertisers. This year those students who wish to buy a Pertelote must first pay a deposit so that the correct number of books may be ordered Until now only half of the individual pictures have been made, but it is hoped that everyone will get this taken care of by the end of the week.

Frank Outen, photography editor of the Pertelote, has announced that the staff of this year's annual will sponsor a photography contest with cash prizes. The object of the contest is to obtain pictures of scenes around the college that will reflect campus activities and events and help make this year's history of Brevard since May of 1948.

Any number of pictures may be submitted, but must be turned in to Gerald Martin, Frank Outen, or Charlie Freeman by December 10, 1948. The pictures should be large enough so that persons in them can be recognized. Mechanics of good photography will influence the judging of the entries and photos should be clear and distinct.

OUR DEEPEST SYMPATHIES

... to all who are innocent. We greatly regret that a privilege has been taken away from you because of only one or a few guilty ones. Someone, however, tried to tear off the screen over the bookstore counter during the past weekend, so the students entrance will be kept closed except during the regular bookstore hours.

Christmas Dance To Be Given By Vets Club Dec. 16

The annual Christmas dance, sponsored again this year by the Brevard college veterans club, will be given the night of Thursday, December 16th., in the college gym. Last year this event proved to be one of the main attractions of the year and plans this year are to make the dance a complete change from others held here.

Rodney Taylor is in charge of decorations and a woman's touch will be added by Sissy Suttle. The gym will be decorated differently from ever before and refreshments will be available.

Music will be supplied by Bob Davis and his band and Lois Stratton and Jack Prince will take care of the vocal chores. The dance will last from 8 to 12 and will provide students and faculty with a good chance to say good-bye for the Christmas vacation. Dress will be semi-formal and members of the Vets club will be around the campus selling tickets to the affair.

Ray DeLapp expressed hope that every student will come and enjoy the dance and promised that they will see something completely new and a great improvement over other dances.

W. Powell Hale, outstanding impersonator, will give a reading of Dickens' "Christmas Carol," in Brevard college auditorium next Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock. All friends of the college are cordially invited to hear Mr. Hale, and no admission will be charged. Prof. M. G. Pangle, a personal friend of Mr. Hale's throughout their life, highly recommends this program.

"Mr. Hale never fails to make a hit and it will be a real treat for the people of Brevard college and of the community to hear him," Pangle states. "He is a reader, a teacher, an entertainer and a gentleman, and his reading of the Dickens' 'Christmas Carol' is the best I've ever heard."

Local Officials At Conference Of Southern Association In Memphis

Dr. E. J. Coltrane, president of the college, and Dean J. J. Stevenson left last Saturday for Memphis, Tenn., to attend the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Secondary Colleges and Universities.

The meeting began on November 29 and was over Wednesday, December 1st. In addition to attending the meeting, the two representatives from Brevard went to make a report to the association in an attempt to become recognized and accredited by the Southern Association.

In a visit to the campus last spring, members of the association's admittance board made several requirements which Brevard was to meet before gaining entrance in the association. These have been met and Dr. Coltrane and Dean Stevenson expressed hopes of returning to the college with favorable news.

Perhaps the greatest change in the college this fall has been the acquisition of 3,500 new books for the James Addison Jones Memorial library. This was one of the requirements as outlined by the association's inspecting committee last spring.

Another addition which should prove helpful in gaining admission into the association was the construction of the new infirmary on the campus.

After the report to the association has been made, it must be approved by several committees and a decision will not be known for probably three months.

Hicks Attends Student Assembly

Claude Hicks, president of the Brevard college student body attended a meeting of the N. C. Student Legislation assembly in Greensboro on November 20. He was sent to represent Brevard in a meeting in which 18 schools were represented including four negro colleges.

The object of the student assembly is to voice student opinion throughout North Carolina in order to swing state legislation that would be beneficial to colleges and universities. The N. C. assembly is connected with the national assembly.

Next spring six delegates will be elected from the college student body to represent the school in a meeting at the Federal Court building in Raleigh. This delegation will draw up six bills to introduce to the house and senate. Three members of the delegation will sit in the house and three in the senate. Of the six bills that will be drawn only two will be accepted by the legislature for consideration.

Life magazine will publicize the meeting next spring and will be present with photographers. A picture story of the events will be carried in the magazine at a later date.
