

To Grow Bulbs On College Farm

40-50 ACRES WILL BE PLANTED THIS YEAR ON FARM

Arrangements Are Made With Prominent Florida Grower For Conversion

Arrangements have been made to grow bulbs on an extensive scale on the college farm here, according to Dr. E. J. Coltrane, president of the institution.

"When these bulbs reach maturity and flower out, they will present a panorama of striking beauty," Dr. Coltrane said.

From 40 to 50 acres will be planted this year in bulbs and cultivation is already under way. The planting of the bulbs is expected to begin March 1 and they will be shipped here directly from Holland, the bulb center of the world. After they are developed, they will be sold in all parts of the country.

Well Experienced

Alexander P. Thomas, of Cocoa, Fla., an experienced bulb and citrus grower, has leased the property for five years. Negotiations have been under way for several months between Mr. Thomas and the board of trustees and Dr. Coltrane said he was delighted that the farm could be used for such a meritorious project.

It was through the efforts of Julian A. Glazener, county agent, that the initial contract was made with Mr. Thomas. "Just as Transylvania is noted for its many advantages, the county should become a leader in the production of gladioli bulbs," Mr. Glazener stated.

Several other men, among them W. J. Wallis, Charles Cook, Henry Carrier and Jim Morrow, have grown bulbs here successfully for a number of years, he said further.

Mr. Thomas operates two large farms in Florida, devoted to the growing of bulbs, citrus fruits and vegetables. One of them contains 1,200 acres and the other 1,400 acres.

Teaches Music

BRUCE ATKINS LIVENGOOD, above, has recently joined the music faculty of Brevard college. He comes here from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music where he received his Masters degree in music this January. Along with his duties as a teacher of music, Livengood will also take charge of the various choral groups on the campus.

The Florida man and two bulb experts from Amsterdam, Holland, were here several weeks ago investigating the suitability of this section for the growing of bulbs.

"Well, doctor, was my operation a success?"
"I'm not your doctor; I'm St. Peter."

Livengood Joins Music Department At College Here

Bruce Atkins Livengood has assumed his duties as a member of the music department of Brevard college. He received his Master's degree in music this January from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music where he was a member of the faculty.

Livengood received his bachelor's degree in music at Cincinnati in 1948, and prior to that, served three years as a member of the junior faculty. Since joining the conservatory, Livengood has also served as organist and director of music at May Street Presbyterian church in Cincinnati.

During the war the young man, who is only 24 years old, served in the army as chaplain's assistant, and at the time of his discharge, was post organist at Fort Knox, Ky.

Livengood's musical studies have centered around the piano and organ, and among the noted musicians with whom he has studied are the late Dr. J. R. Ninnis, Queen's college; James Crosland, Jacksonville college of music; Miss Amy Lee, Cincinnati Conservatory; Frederick H. Parker, Columbia college; and at present, with Dr. Karol Liszniewski at Cincinnati.

He will be in charge of all vocal groups, including the chorus, the choir, the smaller groups such as the mixed quartets which are singing in many of the churches. He will teach choir organization and direction, the study of hymns, and the history of music. He is also a teacher of piano.

The program of general music at Brevard will also be under the direction of Livengood. This is an attempt to give all Brevard college

Morris Named On UNC Dean's List

William C. Morris, Jr., of Brevard, is among the students at the University of North Carolina to be named to the Dean's list for the fall quarter. To be included in this list, students must make a minimum of 15 hours and make averages of 90-95.

Morris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Morris and is married to the former Miss Virginia Hall. He attended Brevard high school and Brevard college, and was commissioned an ensign in the navy during the last war.

"Say, Maizy had a breach of promise suit on, didn't she?"

"Yes, a while ago."

"Well, how did she come out?"

"Terrible, the guy decided to marry her."
